SKIDMORE HUNT EXTENDS TO CANADA

ESCAPES NET AFTER FIGHT WITH POSSE AT CABIN

Hilltop Killer Suspect Flees Hills; Rifle Found Miles From Battle Scene

Canadian and New York state authorities today were enlisted in the search for George C. Skidmore, Mt. Washington youth wanted for the murder of a gasoline station attendant. Skidmore eluded a posse of 300 National Guardsmen state police and Center County authorities yesterday after he had wounded three highway patrolmen and a citizen who sought to arrest him in his hideout in the hills near Bellefonte.

City detectives returned here during the night with William Dutton, 25, and Leonard Skidmore, the younger brother, and are holding the pair incommunicado. Dutton, George Skidmore, Eugene Batdorf, 20, of Thirteenth street McKees Rocks, and a fourth man still unidentified, are said to have staged the holdup at the Liberty Bell gasoline station Warrington avenue, a week ago, in which Charles P. Hammond, crippled attendant, was slain.

ELUDES POSSE

George Skidmore's knowledge of the dense forest tract in which he was hiding enabled him to escape the large party of searchers who spent a weary night tramping the hills. He made his escape at daybreak yesterday by boarding a freight train on the Bald Eagle division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and riding into the Jersey Shore yards, near Williamsport. His rifle was found in an empty

The younger brother, a student at Bellefonte Academy, who led state highway patrolmen to the mountain cabin where two were shot down as George B. Skidmore, 20, Pittsburgh, wanted in a Pittsburgh slaying, escaped. Dutton was arrested with Leonard as Skidmore's companion in the little mountain hunting cabin.

THREATS SENT ROTHENBERG

Leo Rothenberg, police magistrate at Central station, today revealed that he had received a letter threatening him with a "ride" unless he ceased handing out jail and workhouse sentences in the vagrant cleanup recently ordered by Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police.

The letter was unsigned. Rothenberg blames the threat on friends of some of the drifters who have come here from other cities and have been arrested and sentenced on vagrancy charges. Last Monday Rothenberg sent 80 men to the county jail or workhouse. Frank R. Boyd, inspector of detectives, has ordered his sleuths to press the war on drifters and clear Pittsburgh of undesirables who have been driven from other cities.

First Frost Here; Mercury Dips to 38

The season's first frost, reported heavy in low-lying districts, covered vegetation in suburban and rural districts this morning. The mercury fell to 38 at Mt. Lebanon and several other outlying points. At the weather bureau the official low mark was 45 at 6 a. m. Forecaster W. S. Bretzman said the temperature would rise to around 70 late today.

Fords Impressed By Passion Play

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Henry Ford and Mrs. Ford today praised the performance of the Passion Play which they saw yesterday. Both were deeply moved by the exhibition. Accompanied by Anton Lang, former impersonator of Christ, they called on several of the chief actors, and purchased some wood carvings.

MORROW GUEST OF HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Dwight W. Morrow, about to retire as ambassador to Mexico to campaign as the Republican senatorial nominee in New Jersey, discussed Mexican affairs with State Department officials today and was invited to lunch with President Hoover.

Submittal of his resignation from the diplomatic corps was imminent. The President was not expected to name a successor at once.

Mr. Morrow expects to conclude his conferences and leave late tonight for his home in Englewood, N. J., joining Mrs. Morrow, who went directly there alone this morning, to be greeted by her daughters, Miss Elizabeth Morrow and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

COUNTY FAILS JOB SEEKERS

Several hundred men applied for jobs at the county road department in old City Hall, Oliver avenue and Smithfield street, this morning only to be told those in charge knew nothing of an announced plan to aid the unemployed.

The County Commissioners last week obtained funds amounting to $500,000 with which to improve the secondary road system of the county. The present force of laborers thus could be given employment until after the holidays, it was explained, and several hundred additional men could be taken on. These jobs, it was stated, would be available this morning.

John A. Fugassi, superintendent of the county road department, was not in his office as the men came and went. Clerks in charge informed the applicants they were not authorized to put them to work.

Applicants in many instances were told to see the job foreman.

Publication of Treaty Ended Secret Diplomacy, Says Publisher Over Radio

(Universal Service.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—William Randolph Hearst revealed in a radio address last night how and why he obtained the secret Anglo-French naval treaty, as a result of which he was recently expelled from France.

Mr. Hearst delivered the address in response to a special invitation from M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, who not only tendered the world-wide facilities of that company, but suggested the theme. It was the first time the publisher had ever spoken over the radio.

Introducing Mr. Hearst to the radio listeners, Mr. Aylesworth paid a glowing tribute to his patriotism.

RELAYED ABROAD

The words of Mr. Hearst were carried in the United States and Canada by 75 stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

Besides NBC associate stations from coast to coast, his speech was relayed to foreign listeners by short wave from Schenectady, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Boston. It was heard in the New York area through both WEAF and WJZ at 10 p. m., Eastern standard time.

A striking point in Mr. Hearst's statement was his direct refutation of allegations made by the French government to the effect that the naval pact was secured by rifling of government files and bribery and corruption of government officials. He denied the treaty was published to injure France, and said the sole motive was to inform American citizens.

He then proceeded to tell that the contents of the pact were secured by two French citizens, Messrs. DeLaplanque and De Noblet, who deemed secret diplomacy, as typified by the pact, a detriment to their own country as well as the world at large.

Mr. Hearst said he did not think he had harmed the French gov-

MYSTERY HIDES MARINE KILLING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A hatchet-and-gun tragedy left Lieut. Col. Richard B. Creecy, of the Marine Corps, dead and his wife wounded in their hotel suite yesterday.

Col. Creecy

Police at first constructed an "attempted murder-suicide" theory, the marine officer being found on the floor with a bullet through his heart and Mrs. Creecy nearby with her head gashed. Today she lay in Emergency Hospital, fear for her life being felt.

Police waited in hope that she would regain consciousness and tell what happened. They had become dissatisfied with the first theory. Detective Edward J. Kelly, on request of the wealthy Creecy family, started tracing the implements of death—both of which were new. He said:

"I want to know what happened in that room, and it is likely that the tracing of the gun and hatchet will be the answer."

Marine corps headquarters ordered a special board of inquest to investigate. The dead officer, 49, was second in command of the Haiti constabulary. He was here on leave.

Text of Mr. Hearst's Address

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.

Following is the text of William Randolph Hearst's speech broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company system last night:

I will not say "my friends of radioland," because radioland nowadays embraces the whole country and the whole community.

But since the radio speaks to the whole citizenship, I will revive that fine old-fashioned phrase, "fellow citizens."

Let me say that I am very happy to be one of our fellow citizens.

I know of no finer title, and I want no higher position than to be a citizen of the United States of America.

In ancient days to be a Roman citizen meant to be the equal of princes and kings.

Today the most envied honor in the world is to be an American citizen.

And this is so, not merely because America is the greatest nation in the world, but because it is the freest nation in the world, and the happiest nation on account of its freedom.

We cannot understand how much freedom means in this country until we come back from countries where freedom means nothing.

Here we have freedom of thought, freedom of the press, freedom of speech.

Here we can think and say and do what we please as long as we do not interfere with the rights and liberties of our fellow citizens.

But the great honor and advantage of being an American citizen carries with it an obligation just as great, and that obligation is to preserve inviolate the rights and liberties and privileges which our forefathers won for us in blood and toil and travail, that we may hand this precious heritage of freedom and independence, of liberty and dignity, down to our children and our children's children, undiminished and unimpaired.

Mr. Aylesworth, the very able gentleman who directs this radio, has desired me to speak about the incident of my recent exclusion from France.

I defer to his judgment, although I think that incident already has been sufficiently discussed.

Furthermore, I know the incident is of no consequence, except insofar as it affects the rights and liberties of other American citizens, and the respect due the dignity of American citizenship.

The action of the French government has so much the petulance of a spoiled child, and is so reminiscent of the days when the little boy next door got mad and said, "You can't play in my yard," that it is difficult to discuss the incident seriously.

Nevertheless it has its serious side.

To begin with, the French government has asserted—

First, that the secret Anglo-French naval treaty, secured two years ago by my newspapers, was obtained by rifling the government files.

Second, that it was secured by bribery and corruption of government officials.

Third, that it was secured and published in order to injure France.

Speaking of the small boy attitude of the French government, I am reminded of the story about the little chap who was asked by his teacher to describe a lobster, and he said that a lobster was a red fish which walked backwards.

The teacher replied that the description was all right except for the fact that a lobster wasn't red and wasn't a fish and didn't walk backwards.

Similarly it may be said that the assertions of the French government would be all right except for the fact that they are all wrong.

The treaty was not secured by rifling the files.

It was not secured by bribery and corruption.

And it was not published to injure France, but to inform American citizens on a subject concerning which they had the right to be informed.

The secret treaty was not secured by any devious or indirect methods.

It was secured by good direct American go-and-get-it methods.

The fact that this secret naval treaty was under negotiation between England and France was widely rumored in diplomatic circles.

I was acquainted with several distinguished Frenchmen influential in public affairs.

I contended to them that such a secret treaty was not fair to America, their recent valued ally.

I said that one of the great reasons which President Wilson had given for our entry into the World War was to end the evil of secret diplomacy, which had been the contributing cause of so many wars.

I said that America had sacrificed much to help win the war, and that almost before American blood was dry upon the battlefields of France, this practice of secret diplomacy had been resumed to make future wars certain, and America's sacrifice vain.

Some of these distinguished Frenchmen were convinced of the justice of my statements; and the influence of these gentlemen, combined with the effort and activity of our Paris office, secured for us a copy of this treaty from a responsible government official.

The moment we secured the treaty, there was an end of secret diplomacy, as far as that document was concerned, for the secret treaty became a public treaty as far as world-wide publication could make it.

The treaty consequently was never consummated.

The French government officials were very angry, and Mr. Delaplanque and Mr. De Noblet, through whom we received the treaty, were arrested by the French government for conspiracy, and I was accused of complicity.

I was not concerned about the charge of the French government. I had done what I believed was for the best interests of my own country and my own people.

Moreover, I did not think that I had done the French government any harm, but, on the contrary, had done it a certain amount of good in preventing its return, in this instance at least, to the evil practice of secret diplomacy. Now, fellow citizens, you may say to me:

"You certainly committed no crime nor misdemeanor nor offense as far as our country was concerned; but did you not commit an offense according to the laws of France?"

And I say in reply:

"I will leave the decision of that question in your hands, in view of the following facts."

Mr. Delaplanque and Mr. De Noblet, from whom our office received the treaty, were dragged before a French court by the French government and prosecuted; and their own French court decided that they had committed no crime, no misdemeanor, no offense of any kind, and discharged them as innocent, and dismissed the case.

Now, if the French gentlemen who gave us the treaty committed no offense, how could we Americans who received the treaty have committed an offense?

And how could I be accused of complicity in an offense when the French courts decided that no offense had been committed?

Yet, two years after the publication of the secret treaty, Mr. Tardieu did accuse me of complicity in a non-existent offense, and did ask me to leave France, although I had already been in France earlier this same year for several weeks without molestation of any kind.

One word more and I will conclude.

Mr. De Noblet is the scion of a great French family. His uncle was ambassador to the Vatican, and he, himself, is a man of influence and importance.

As soon as the French courts discharged him as innocent, and declared that no offense had been committed, he promptly sued the French government for false arrest, and refuses to compromise the case. Perhaps, fellow citizens, some of you will say to me:

"Why did not you sue the French government?"

And I say, first, because I did not want to magnify the incident, and, second, because I had the simplicity to believe, fellow citizens, that somewhere among our paid servants at Washington there might be found some public official with independence enough and backbone enough and American spirit enough to defend the rights of law-abiding American citizens sojourning abroad, and to vindicate the validity of an American passport, and to maintain the liberty and dignity of American citizenship.

I still think if Theodore Roosevelt had been alive, or if Grover Cleveland had been alive, you would have heard little of W. R. Hearst, to be sure, for he is of no importance in this situation; but you would have heard much about the value and validity and inviolability of the American passport, and of due and necessary respect for the rights and liberties of the American citizen.

Theodore Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland are dead. But let us hope that American spirit and American independence and American loyalty to the rights and liberties which we inherited from our fathers, and desire to hand on to our sons, did not die with these great Americans.

Delegates in World-Wide Drive Against Accidents; Street Exhibits Elaborate

A message of commendation from President Herbert Hoover greeted the 7,000 delegates as the nineteenth annual National Safety Congress opened today with its first general session.

Marking the largest convention ever entertained by Pittsburgh, "Safety Week" was being conducted by the local safety council and business interests. Safety was heralded from street banners, homes, shops and schools. William Penn way, at Sixth avenue, was a gala scene of outdoor exhibits arranged for the general public.

Stressing that deaths by accidents was a challenge to the nation, President Hoover's message which was read by National Safety Congress President C. E. Pettibone, of New York, at the opening of the general session, said:

PRAISES COUNCIL

In praising the safety efforts, President Hoover said:

"I deeply appreciate the value of the work of the National Safety Council in efforts to prevent the frightful loss of human life due to preventable accidents in industry and elsewhere. The death by accident of almost 100,000 persons in one year in the United States is a challenge to the resourcefulness of the nation to devise measures to eliminate this disastrous loss both of economic assets and of precious human values. Most of it is preventable and your educational campaigns to teach the methods of such prevention are worthy of all praise."

MASS EDUCATION

Mass education to reduce accidents on streets and highways was cited by President Pettibone in his address as America's greatest need. Emphasizing that 31,000 deaths caused by motor vehicles cannot be accepted as a necessary

They have stolen the Democrat's thunder. Also their showers.

A Republican is a politician who has suddenly discovered he has hips.

For the last 10 years the Republican party has legislated dry, preached dry, campaigned dry and drank nonpartisan.

All in favor signify in the usual manner by raising the right elbow.

To be extremely wet is not good. To be fanatically dry is worse. Let's see if we can strike a happy boiled medium.

The action of New York's Republicans indicates that you cannot tell which way the cat has jumped until you are putting iodine on the scratches.

It makes both political parties one big male glee club singing the Maine stein song and restores the old battered bar towel to its honored place among the battle flags of the republic.

W. R. HEARST REVEALS HOW SECRET PACT WAS OBTAINED

EDITOR GIVES MOTIVE IN ADDRESS

Publisher Declares Treaty Was Prepared to Put End To Secret Diplomacy

Mr. Hearst said he was unconcerned over his personal relation to the case. He was concerned over the abuse of rights and liberties of an American citizen that were involved, he explained.

He wondered, he said, if the Washington administration would deal with the matter or whether it would defend the rights of American citizens, several of whom sought to obtain passports.

THE PACT EXPOSED

The secret treaty between France and England was exposed by the Hearst newspapers on September 21, 1925.

The secret agreement disclosed in detail an agreement between the French and British to remove any limitation on construction of ships, suited to the needs of those two nations.

The essential features of the pact as exposed by the Hearst newspapers were:

France and Great Britain agreed that a disarmament conference should deal with naval vessels by these categories.

Capital ships of more than 10,000 tons, or with guns larger than eight-inch caliber, airplane carriers of more than 10,000 tons, surface ships of 10,000 tons or less armed with guns of six to eight inch caliber, and deepwater submarines of more than 600 tons.

They agreed that construction of large cruisers should be limited, but that small cruisers, auxiliary cruisers and submarines for coastal defense should be exempt from restrictions.

The agreement totally ignored needs of the United States and was directly opposed to the naval disarmament stand taken by diplomats of this country at that time.

A great furor of worldwide proportions was about to be created when it became clear that pre-war secret diplomacy supposed to have been outlawed at Versailles had been resorted to.

HORAN EXILED

Harold J. T. Horan correspondent of the Hearst newspapers in Paris, was arrested under spectacular circumstances by agents of the French secret service in the Rue De La Paix. He was given the alternative of leaving France or facing a term of five years imprisonment for alleged theft of secret documents.

Mr. Hogan preferred exile from France to imprisonment although he was wholly innocent of obtaining the document by any unlawful means.

Mr. Hearst at the time immediately informed the American Department of State and the then Secretary Kellogg that he personally assumed full responsibility for any blame that might be attached to publication of the document.

Both in England and in France exposure of the document had the effect of preventing its ratification by either country and also of opening the eyes of the United States to the fact that secret diplomacy had not ceased with the World War. When negotiations eventually were resumed at the London Naval Parley in 1930 the press was publicly informed from day to day of what was going on.

Publication of the secret treaty was hailed particularly in England as an event for which the world-wide masses of people should be grateful. Following a conference with President Coolidge at the White House, Mr. Hearst said on October 11, 1928:

"I think the British were glad it was published. It cleared the atmosphere and the resultant editorial comment has been exceedingly favorable to its publication."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The year 1928 passed as did the year 1929 and in the summer of 1930 Mr. Hearst took occasion to sojourn in France. Then on last September 2 word was cabled to America that Mr. Hearst himself had left French soil at the request of the French government. An official communique thus explained the expulsion:

"The presidency of the council communicates the following: William Randolph Hearst, proprietor of numerous newspapers in America, was expelled yesterday from French territory. This measure, taken upon order of the president of the council minister of the interior, had its origin in the role played last year by Mr. Hearst in obtaining and publishing a secret document relating to the Anglo-French naval negotiations."

Mr. Hearst immediately went to London where he issued his now famous. It was a bit foolish but extremely French statement. In that instance, Mr. Hearst said:

"If being a competent journalist and a loyal American makes a man persona non grata in France, I think I can endure the situation without loss of sleep."

However the expulsion stirred up a wave of indignation in America, while London newspapers also championed Mr. Hearst, welcoming him to that nation as one of America's most distinguished patriots.

Mr. Hearst sailed for his native land on the liner Europa, arriving in New York harbor on September 15, to be acclaimed by a notable gathering of public men and citizens.

WHITE HOUSE SILENT

A few days later he was invited by Mayor Curley of Boston to be a guest of honor at Boston's tercentennial celebration of the founding of that city. Mr. Hearst accepted the honor and was feted in Boston along with the mayor of Boston, England.

Since then the City of Chicago has arranged to honor him as a great American patriot on October 9. The City of San Francisco and the City of Oakland, Cal., have arranged to do likewise.

While numerous senators and congressmen have publicly expressed resentment over Mr. Hearst's expulsion as an affront to the United States and an abrogation of the rights of an American citizen, the executive department at Washington, thus far, has remained silent.

The address of Mr. Hearst last night was prefaced by a short musical program by Goldman's band.

PLOT REVEALED, GUARD BRIDGES

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 29 (AP).—Nine bridges across the Ohio River between Steubenville, O., and Bellaire, O., are under guard as the result of the discovery in a street car of a note indicating a plot to blow up the structures.

The note, signed by a person named Jack and addressed to an individual named Angelo, instructed Angelo:

"Have gun cotton and nitroglycerin ready for me by October 1. Our plan is to cut off all traffic (as referred to in first note) by blowing up both state and railroad bridges. Just lie low and manufacture fireworks. We will do best. Tear up this letter."

The note was found early last week in a man's purse on a seat in a Bellaire street car. The boy who picked it up gave it to his mother, who turned it over to Wheeling police.

A hasty conference of officials from various towns in the Wheeling district followed and a close watch was kept on known radicals.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 29 (INS).—All possible assistance was offered today to Senor Hipolito Irigoyen, deposed president of Argentina, by the new government. He was reported gravely ill aboard his floating prison in the River Plate.

Three doctors summoned to the Cruiser Belgrano were said to have found him in a state of coma and immediately advised the government that he probably would have to be taken ashore.

NEW OIL LEASE CHARGES RIVAL TEAPOT DOME

Resignation of Field Chief Rouses Capital; Wilbur Denies Fraud Accusation

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Another Senate investigation into oil concessions and leases appeared almost certain here today as a result of a stinging letter of resignation by Ralph S. Kelley, chief of the field forces of the General Land Office and for 25 years connected with the Department of the Interior.

Kelley's letter alleged that during the last six years oil companies have been awarded oil lands in Colorado worth billions of dollars to which they were not legally entitled but conciliatory measures because of great political and other pressure brought to bear upon the secretary.

"NONSENSE"—WILBUR

Keeley's letter was addressed to Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, who declined to comment other than to say:

"Practically all he has to say is nonsense, of course."

The Kelley charges aroused intense interest among senators and it was freely predicted that another oil investigation, perhaps comparable to the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills investigations, will be ordered.

Some of the oil interests that have obtained valuable concessions in Colorado, Kelley said, are several of the very concerns whose fraudulent practices have been so recently exposed in the investigations and trials of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and others.

LIKENED TO PINCHOT

Kelley's attack on the policies of the Interior Department bears some similarity to the famous attack which Gifford Pinchot made against the Interior Department when he was chief forester and Richard A. Ballinger was secretary of the interior. Pinchot charged that valuable public lands were being taken away from the government by rapacious interests in Alaska and in the Northwest states.

President Taft felt impelled to remove Pinchot because of his charges but in the ensuing uproar, which attained national proportions, Ballinger was forced to resign.

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 29.—An inquiry into the collapse of a steel bleacher stand during a football game at the dedication of the new American Legion field stadium at the Donora High School Saturday, which hurtled 630 students to the ground, was under way today.

Four students, severely hurt are recovering at their homes. They are Esther Aisenberg, 10, who suffered a broken right ankle; Steve Stanko, 14, who received a crushed toe; Florence Jones, 14, and Emily Chilcote, 13, who suffered ankle fractures.

U. S. BUSINESS IMPROVING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP).—While many lines of business and industry continued to lag a considerable number of improvements were shown today in a survey of conditions in the United States and foreign countries, prepared by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's National Business Survey Conference.

The summary covered conditions up to the middle of September in the mostly highly-organized industries, while August conditions were given for others.

Barnes refrained from making forecasts or interpreting the trend of general conditions.

While a material increase was shown in public construction, so far this year it had not made up the decline in private building, which was reported to show some indication of moderate revival in September in the house-building line.

Improvement was reported for September in most forms of steel production, with automobile output still low.

Gasoline consumption continued to set records and the output of automobile tires has been increasing.

HUNT CONVICT FOR 2 MURDERS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 29.—(AP).—Mrs. Hazel Stokes, 27, operator of a boarding house, and Edward Barnett, 24, express company employe were shot to death in the residential section here last night. County and city officers with bloodhounds sought Fred Stokes, escaped life term prisoner from the Florida penitentiary at Raiford, husband of the slain woman.

Two men were slightly injured by stray bullets.

Police said they were told that Stokes had threatened to take his wife's life after she stopped visiting him at the penitentiary. He was sentenced to life imprisonment five years ago for killing a Negro. He escaped three weeks ago.

TAX REFUND FAVORITISM CHARGED

Rich Donors to G. O. P. Fund Declared Beneficiaries By Democratic Leader

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Thinly veiled charges that wealthy contributors to the Republican campaign fund have benefited enormously from the tax refund decisions of the Treasury were made today by Representative John N. Garner, Democratic leader of the House.

These refunds have run considerably in excess of $100,000,000 in recent years.

Among the doners of $10,000 or over to the Republican campaign fund who have benefited through tax refunds either personally or through their corporate connections, Representative Garner named:

John N. Willys, recently named ambassador to Poland; Jeremiah Milbank, New York, frequent White House guest; George A. Martin, of Cleveland; H. M. Hanna, Cleveland; Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland; W. R. The list Garner said is "very incomplete."

N.Y. DEMOCRATS SCORE HOOVER

CONVENTION HALL, Syracuse, Sept. 29.—(INS).—President Hoover's administration of the national government was pictured as in a state of complete collapse by United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, keynote speaker of the Democratic state convention, which opened here today.

The convention tomorrow will renominate Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Wagner laid the blame for the business depression and the "haggard bread lines" at the White House door. He charged that the Republican party had failed to make good the promises made in the 1928 campaign and he said that "the depth of its despair is exceeded only by the profound distress to which it has brought our country."

He charged the Republican administration at Washington with "tinkering and trifling" with prohibition, and he declared the Republican party in New York state "has pursued an even more erratic course."

FINE JUROR $24 FOR DRINKING

When Wesley J. Davison, a carpenter, of 8721 Harvard st., appeared after the noon lunch hour visibly under the influence of liquor, Judge Patterson fined him six days' pay, amounting to $24.

"Only the fact that you have a family saves you from jail."

N. B. C. Head Calls Hearst 'Citizen of Entire U. S.'

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(Universal).—M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, in introducing Mr. Hearst last night, said:

"There are two great forces of mass communication—the newspaper and magazine publications, and radio broadcasting. Tonight they are closely interwoven.

"The publisher of a group of newspapers and magazines whose combined circulation is the largest in the world, is about to speak to you over the radio.

"He is an American, born in California, educated in the West and East, he has become a citizen of the entire United States. A great editor who fearlessly thinks, writes and publishes what he believes to be for the best interests of our people and our country.

"I think if I had asked William Randolph Hearst what he would have liked me to say by way of introduction, his reply would have been something like this:

"'Be brief; do not overly praise; but do not forget to say that William Randolph Hearst is proud that he is an American and an American newspaper man.'

"Mr. Hearst——"

Coolidge Cites Stores' Loss by Scant Stocks

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 29.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Some of our country merchants are beginning to experience difficulty in finding goods for immediate delivery for fall trade. This bears out the assertion so frequently made in the last few weeks that consumption has been running ahead of production. Those stores that have waited too long in placing their orders will now be compelled to lose some of the seasonal trade for lack of stock to supply it.

Calvin Coolidge

Perhaps the time has now come when the marking down of inventories can be overdone. It is a fine thing in a time of dull trade for a merchant not to be overstocked or in debt to his bank. If he can still meet his expenses he will not be forced out of business but on the other hand he will not be making much profit. It is self evident that goods which are not on the shelves cannot be sold. This accounts for some decrease in trade.

Merchants may well remember that the purchasing power of the people is enormous. But the people should co-operate. It cannot be too often repeated that it is now a public duty to pay merchandise bills promptly and buy what we can afford.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

ILL MOVIE STAR RECOVERING

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29—(AP)—Dolores Del Rio film star was revealed by her physician Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, today as recovering from a six weeks' illness which took her to death's door.

Although it was announced several weeks ago Miss Del Rio had been stricken, studio officials denied she was in a critical condition. Dr. Fishbaugh said the actress had a serious kidney ailment a week after her marriage to Cedric Gibbons, film art director, in Santa Barbara, and it had been necessary to keep the severity of her sickness from her, as worry might have proved fatal.

Dr. Fishbaugh said the actress had a temperature of 105 degrees for a time but was safely on the road to recovery. More than a month must elapse before she will be allowed to leave her home, he said.

1 SHOT, POSTAL THEFT SIFTED

Postoffice authorities today are assisting police of Bethel township in a search for two young men and a girl who early Sunday shot acting Postmaster Stewart L. Dillant, 28, manager of the Mutual Supply Company of Mollenauer, taking $1,000, of which $325 belonged to Federal postal funds.

According to Constable Ben W. Smith, called to the scene by Dillant, the two men accompanied by the girl gained entrance to the second floor where Dillant was sleeping, roused him and demanded that he go to the store room.

Instead of going into the store, Dillant led the bandits into the cellar, where he escaped from them in the dark. They found him and one of them shot him through the leg. He then complied with their order to open the safe. They fled with their loot and Dillant crawled to a neighbors home. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

S., Sept. 29—(AP)—The sinking of a schooner with the probable loss of five men, off Ferryland, Newfoundland, at midnight Saturday, was reported by wireless from Cape Race by the master of the Norwegian freighter Haugarland. The message reported the vessel had gone down after a collision. One unnamed man was saved.

Apartment Blast Kills One Woman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(INS)—President Hoover returned to his desk at the White House early today from his fishing camp along the Virginia Rapidan River. The President motored the 100 miles to the Capital before it was awake.

Mrs. Hoover, who also was at the camp, left Washington later for Indianapolis, where she will attend a meeting of the National Council of the Girl Scouts. From Indianapolis she will go to Cleveland and join President Hoover there on Thursday.

The President and his wife with a party of friends visited their son, Herbert, Jr., over the weekend at the mountain camp where they found him making progress from a tubercular infection.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 29—(AP)—The state prepared to declare bonds totaling $27,000 forfeited today when seven labor leaders convicted of second-degree murder of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia police chief, failed to appear for sentence.

Aderholt was slain during strike disorders in June, 1929.

Raskob's Daughter Regains Stolen $2,000 Ring

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29—(AP)—A $2,000 diamond ring, stolen from her father's winter home at Palm Beach, Fla., last February, again will deck the finger of Miss Betty Raskob, daughter of John J. Raskob, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., announced.

In a long-distance conversation with Miss Raskob, Chester told of the jewel, which was found among the loot uncovered since the arrest of James P. Connelly, alias Newman, in Erie, Pa., Monday night. Miss Raskob, over the wires, identified the ring, and Raskob, in another conversation, told of its theft. Raskoz and his daughter spoke from their home at Centerville, Del.

Connelly has been brought here to face charges of carrying concealed weapons and robbery on affidavits signed by Larry Van Skaik, former city detective, who was held up by Connelly in a hotel here last spring. The ring, stolen during a robbery which netted thieves money as well from the Raskob home, was given to Miss Raskob by her mother.

THIEVES GET 2 BAGS AIR MAIL

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29—(AP)—Theft of two pouches of air mail from Municipal Airport offered postal inspectors here a baffling mystery.

The two 35-pound bags, one of them registered, were brought here from Chicago on a National Air Transport plane piloted by Edmund L. Maluchа.

Shortly afterward mail for the Southwest was trundled to a Dallas ship. In that brief space the two pouches vanished.

Postal inspectors said airport employes were mystified.

Inspectors said the theft of the air mail was the second in the history of the route.

Cyrus H. Zimmerman, postal inspector here, was checking the value of the bags' contents, mailed at Chicago, New York, St. Paul and Philadelphia.

Skidmore Escapes Police Net, Hunt Spreads Into Canada

freight car in which he had been hiding.

When authorities realized that Skidmore had given them the slip by retreating into the Black Moshannon Valley to the railroad tracks under cover of darkness, they immediately sent warnings to scores of nearby towns. They gave a complete description of the young man, adding a note of warning to other officers. The warning told of Skidmore's deadly marksmanship with the heavy revolver he still carries.

Authorities believe that Skidmore will head north for the Canadian border. New York state highway police and the Canadian police were notified. The youth has but $20. He is hatless and is dressed in moleskin breeches, a khaki shirt and high-topped boots.

WOMAN ASKS RELEASE

An attempt of a woman who said she was the mother of the Skidmore boys to obtain the release of Leonard Skidmore failed yesterday. The woman arrived in Bellefonte shortly before noon and called upon Lieut. Frank Ferris of the homicide squad of Pittsburgh detectives. She asked for the custody of the boy and said she believed she would by some means be able to have George surrender. Ferris refused to release Leonard although the woman threatened to take court action.

Residents of Center and Clearfield counties feel bitter over the shooting of Highway Patrolman J. G. Olmes and William Fox, caretaker for the Rattlesnake Mountain beacon light. Both are in hospitals in Philipsburg where it was said they would recover. Fox is the most serious. Yesterday it was necessary to amputate his right arm above the elbow.

AMBUSHES POLICE

It was disclosed Sunday that Sergt. W. C. A. Bear and Corp. C. I. Gross, state highway motor patrolmen, Bellefonte district, were slightly wounded Saturday when Skidmore ambushed them when they were leaving their automobile on Rattlesnake road.

Dutton, also of Mt. Washington, in custody of Ferris in a statement today said he met Skidmore Monday morning following the holdup. While walking over Point Bridge, according to Ferris, Dutton told him that Skidmore had said that he had shot and killed the gas station attendant.

"I am going to the mountains and want you to come along," Skidmore told Dutton, "but if you tell anyone I told you I killed a man, I'll knock you off even if you are my pal."

Lieut. Ferris and Sergt. Samuel Wheeler, with other Pittsburgh detectives, yesterday went to the room occupied by Leonard Skidmore in a dormitory of Bellefonte Academy and confiscated a .45 caliber army automatic revolver, several hundred rounds of ammunition were also seized.

Ferris said he would prefer charges of accessory to murder against Dutton and Leonard Skidmore.

PAIR UNWORRIED

Questioned today, both young men appeared little worried over their plight. Young Skidmore upon learning that his brother had escaped smiled his approval.

Fox, the wounded caretaker, let it be known that he and George Skidmore were very good friends. He said:

"I admired his ability as a marksman, and for that reason liked him. Three weeks ago last Saturday George and Leonard visited me at the beacon tower and we talked about hunting in the coming winter. I even permitted the brother to sleep the night in the tower. I never thought that he would shoot me without giving me a chance. He is no longer my pal and I hope that he is given the same treatment that he gave me."

ARSENAL IN HOME

Pittsburgh detectives checking the record of George Skidmore found that his police career dates back to September 15, 1926, when he and his brother Leonard were arrested in connection with a store robbery at 112 Cohasset street.

In the attic of the Skidmore home, 219 Meridian street, police say they found a Springfield rifle, a Mauser rifle, four revolvers, two trench knives, a stiletto, three dynamite cartridges, a blackjack, a can of powder and two dynamite fuses.

George and Leonard Skidmore, along with Algernon Jones, were arraigned for a hearing the following day. All were discharged.

The Skidmore boys were in the habit of discharging dynamite, police learned, and were fond of brandishing firearms in their home.

ADMIT G.O.P. AID TO HEMPHILL

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29—(AP)—Admission that certain members of the Philadelphia Republican organization had aided the campaign of John M. Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal party nominee for governor, is made by Charles Dorrance, chairman of the Liberal state committee, in replying to five questions asked recently on the stump by Gifford Pinchot, Republican gubernatorial nominee.

In making public his replies, Dorrance directs five questions at Pinchot and asks that the latter be equally frank in answering them. The principal query by the Liberal managers is whether the Republican candidate, if elected, would sign a bill repealing the Snyder act, the state prohibition enforcement law, if the Legislature passed such a repealer.

GUGGENHEIM DIES AT 74

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 29—(AP)—Daniel Guggenheim, a member of the Guggenheim family of mining magnates and widely known as a patron of aeronautics, died yesterday of heart disease at his estate, Hempstead House. He was 74 years old.

He was in poor health when he returned from Europe, September 15, and took to his bed last Friday.

In addition to his numerous philanthropies, many of them anonymous, Guggenheim gave millions to the furtherance of the science of aeronautics. He founded the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics with an initial donation of $2,500,000. Before the foundation was dissolved at the end of last year approximately $5,000,000 had been expended through it.

As head of the Guggenheim copper and smelting interest he was named by James K. Gerard in his recent list of "rulers of America."

SAFETY MEET OPENS HERE

part of our routine existence, Pettibone said.

"People must be convinced that accidents have definite causes, that they just don't happen. We must first educate the public understand the seriousness of the accident situation and then organize effective leadership.

"I have said there was 11 per cent decrease in deaths among children of school age. What a tribute to safety education and what convincing proof this is of the necessity for organizations in every community and those of national influence that can put over a program of education."

E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, welcomed the delegates, following invocation by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr. A business session followed the president's address. Presentation to Joseph A. Holmes award was made to the Lehigh Portland Cement Company of Allentown, for the outstanding safety accomplishment over a six-year period. The presentation was made by Scott Turner, United States Bureau of Mines director, of Washington, and accepted by C. E. M. Young, president of the winning concern.

GRAVES SPEAKER

They were the ABC round table session, engineering section on cigar and cigaret manufacture and public safety section. The latter included the general membership.

LUNCHEONS ARRANGED

Divided into many sections, the sessions will be held in the William Penn and Fort Pitt Hotels during the week. Several luncheons each day will feature the noonday of the various divisions, which will elect officers at sectional meetings during the week.

Bride Jumps Into Lake, Mate Lands in Jail

"Go jump in the lake."

She did. Loach followed, caught her after she had sunk once, and dragged her to pilings where bystands helped them from the icy water.

They lauded him as a hero. Mrs. Loach lay on the shore, still unconscious. Her husband refused to take her to a hospital, so the bystanders quit applauding and called the police.

Mrs. Loach is in the hospital. Her husband occupies a cell. Police found liquor in his automobile.

AGED SINGER TO TEACH GIRLS

NEW YORK Sept. 29 — (UP) — The inexhaustible energy of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, now in her seventy-first year, has found a new outlet.

The world famous contralto is about to open a school for young singers at Steinway Hall. She expects to teach all but before the year ends.

Applicants will be interviewed by Mme. Schumann-Heink in the National Broadcasting Company studios early next month. At the studios it was said today that more than 1,000 letters from girl applicants had been received. Outstanding pupils will be presented at monthly auditions at Steinway Hall, commencing in January.

POVERTY NO BAR

It is understood that not a penny of the applicants' parents will be solicited for the worthy student. Having sung for thousands of American soldiers during the World War, she thinks some consideration is due to American girls.

Not that Madame Schumann-Heink has retired since her farewell three years ago. She has appeared in countless concerts for the American Legion, disabled war veterans' operatic and concert bands throughout the country.

Her rest carried her through six weeks of Sunday at Roxy's vaudeville. Since last January she has served as operatic counsel for the National Broadcasting Company besides singing Sunday evening radio programs.

TASTES SIMPLE

She is constantly adding protégées to her own family of six children, 14 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Her sympathy she attributes to the early days of her career when she had to perform at a matinee concert with both home to feed her family and then hurry back to a night performance and then return to put her children to bed.

Her tastes have remained simple despite the world acclaim she has received during more than 50 years in opera and concert. Cooking for a small group of friends, walking, automobiling and helping others fill her leisure hours.

6 LAKE VICTIMS' BODIES HUNTED

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Sept. 29 — (AP) — Coast guards from stations on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan were searching between Grand Haven and Ludington today for bodies of Capt. Erwin J. Anderson, 24-year-old skipper of the fruit packet North Shore, his 18-year-old bride of two weeks, and four sailors who went down with their ship during Friday's gale.

Capt. W. E. Preston, of the Grand Haven Coast Guard Station, and his crew returned last night from a cruise on the lake and reported finding part of the bulkhead of the North Shore. Capt. Preston said the fruit packet sank about 30 miles off Racine, Wis. He did not believe there was a chance that any of the six persons on board survived the storm Friday afternoon and night.

Other ships lost in the storm were the schooner Our Son, last commercial sailing vessel on the Great Lakes, and the barge Baldor, which sank off Muskegon with the loss of five lives.

OCTOBER GIMBEL MONTH

Begins Wednesday

One fact we want to emphasize—though the most unusual market conditions exist, nothing in this Sale was bought because its market price happened to be low. No, before we made a single purchase we studied our records of the styles, colors and features you, our customers, have been preferring this Fall, considered carefully the prices you would find irresistible—these facts guided our buying.

We have assembled millions of dollars worth of hand picked merchandise, the most marvelous collection this store has ever housed.

You've waited to buy until prices were down to bed rock...that's where they are in Gimbel Month. Everything you need for yourself, your family, your home, is included in Gimbel Month offerings. No one can tell how long prices will remain at present low levels. BUY NOW.

During October, Gimbels will not knowingly be undersold. We will meet any price on identical merchandise.

DOG THAT BIT TWO CAPTURED

After a 10-hour hunt yesterday by a posse led by Constable William H. Johnson of O'Hara Township a large shepherd dog which had bitten two children and terrorized residents of the district was captured.

While Charles Johnson, 9, of 69 Kittanning pike and Robert Ratke, 10, of Winchell street were playing in front of the former's home the dog pounced upon them and inflicted serious wounds, it was said. Residents fought off the dog.

It was cornered yesterday in the woods near the district and lassoed and is being held by Constable Johnson for observation.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Two stations are to broadcast the opening of Pittsburgh's Fifth Annual Radio Show in Duquesne Garden tonight. The 20 Fingers of Sweetness, King Dough-Dough and other entertainers are booked to appear over WCAE at 7:30 and KQV at 9. When the Empire Builders train comes swishing down the KDKA lane at 10:30 in their first fall program we know many thousand ears will be listening. The Minneapolis Symphony on WJAS at 9 and Danny Nirella's Orchestra in a Gimbel Hour on WCAE at 10 are good bets.

Peggy Berner

The Warners' personality girl, Peggy Berner, is on the KDKA broadcast at 11:15.

QUESTION A DAY

Lois Hale, New Brighton—What do you know about Ted Husing?

Answer—Not very much, Lois, except that he was born in New Mexico and rated four letters in football, baseball, soccer and basketball in a New York high school. Ted is a fast moving machine. When we met him at Atlantic City we had a hard time learning anything about him except that he's daffy about swell clothes. He has a very pretty wife who told us that Ted likes to dance when not covering sports for Columbia.

"Hunkey Dunkey Parley Vous" is an allusion of the Fleetwing Band program dedicated to the American Legion, KDKA at 8 o'clock.

For every emotion, for every nation or race, for every creature that walks, flies or swims, there is music either suggestive or descriptive in radio files at Pittsburgh stations.

You can have any kind of music you want by asking Victor Saudek, Gertrude Mohr, Jim Hughes or Bud Cooper—our musical directors.

UNCOMFORTABLE TIME

John Harron has the uncomfortable time of trying to be something as this newspaper fellow.

Another player prominent in the cast is the blonde Betty Compson. She's a night club entertainer again. She starts out as Gambling Wray's girl and ends up as Reporting Harron's sweetheart.

The best thing about the film is Mr. Wray's laughter. It is a fatal, boisterous laughter. The worst thing about it is—oh well, why go into all this.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That in battle the Spartans wore red cloaks so that the blood might not be seen on the big sissies.

That in England a footsoldier is called a gra-nadier.

That among other things that knocked me cold was learning that Voltaire's real name was Jean Francois Marie Arouet.

That James W. Marshall who was the first person to discover gold in California died in poverty.

That Pocahontas, who was that way about John Smith, died aboard a ship at Gravesend England rather. Her body was never found.

That the real leg of Dorothy Dix who answers all puzzles and problems for you is Miss Elizabeth Meriwether Gilmer.

That cantaloupes are so named from Cantaloupe, Italy, where the melons were first grown.

That Gertrude Atherton, the writer, is a descendant of Benjamin Franklin, the guy who flew kites.

That the maiden name of Priscilla Alden, who spoke the famous "Speak for yourself, John," was Mullens. Of all names!

That pearls by the bushel once were found in the Ohio Valley.

That the signal for the death of a vanquished Roman gladiator was the turning Up and not Down of the thumbs by the spectators.

That Shakespeare did not write the line "A horse, my kingdom for a horse," in Act V of Dick the Three. Colley Cibber, a co-manager of the Drury Lane, London, interpolated the line.

That Joe Miller, who had a joke book bearing his name, couldn't read or write and that John Mottley wrote Joe Miller's jests.

That George Washington was born on February 11 and not February 22. The date having been altered through the elimination of 11 days when the old style calendar was corrected to the new.

That mahogany wood can be obtained from 67 different species of trees.

That more persons visit Edgar Allan Poe's grave than any other American immortal's resting place. Over 2,500 visited it last month.

That the sign over the Palais D' Or Restaurant is plenty wrong if you wants be technical. It should be Palais d'Or.

That the Stock Exchange hasn't a thirteenth floor either.

That the tower in Chicago on which the Lindbergh Beacon is situated has the tiniest elevator in the world. Thirty inches square.

That the life of an eyelash is exactly 30 days.

That you can remove a watercolor/chromo stain with one ounce of pure alcohol add a few drops of either hydrochloric acid or phosphoric acid. Apply and behold! It vanishes like a supreme court judge!

That Dr. Ill lives at No. 524 Ridge avenue, Newark, N. J., according to page 408 of the Social Register.

That above the label on a 3-star Hennessey bottle there is a smaller label with 3 stars. If you wet your finger and run it across the label you can see Hennessey, which proves it isn't bootleg.

That South Carolina fruits and vegetables have a greater sugar content than those grown elsewhere.

That the hula-hula gals in Hawaii do not wear glass pants so much as they wear American-made shoes.

That in making real beer it goes through a vat of seaweed to purify it. But wotthehell!

And that the whole world plays with mixed cards.

HOME BUILDING BOOM SEEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP).—Secretary Lamont estimated today that at least $50,000,000,000 will be spent on new residential construction in the United States during the next 20 years, and in addition, about $500,000,000 a year during the same period on maintenance and repairs of houses.

Discussing plans for a national conference on home building and home ownership which President Hoover has called, the secretary declared:

"With recent drops in prices of building material, an ample number of highly skilled building workers available, contractors anxious to obtain work and mortgage money available at reasonable terms, conditions are now favorable for home builders who have the resources and intend to build to go ahead. In general, conditions are also good for going ahead with repairs, alterations and improvements."

Memorial Service Honors Davidson

A memorial service for Dr. William M. Davidson, late superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, was held yesterday morning in the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church.

Addresses were made by Dr. Percival H. Barker, pastor of the church, and Marcus Aaron, president of Board of Public Education, in which they touched upon Dr. Davidson's life both as an educator and as a useful citizen of Pittsburgh.

Boys Inject Weird Notes in Heinroth Organ Recital

Dr. Charles Heinroth, city organist, opened his twenty-fourth season of concerts at Carnegie Music Hall yesterday.

The program proceeded without interruption until Dr. Heinroth began Haydn's "Clock Movement." Strange notes began to sound entirely out of harmony with the beautiful strains of the number. Dr. Heinroth left the organ and went behind the screen. There he found several small boys playing with the electrical organ controls. After showing the boys out of the auditorium he concluded his concert without further discord.

TITO — SWARTHEY —
"DO YOU RECOGNIZE IT?"
DALE HAD TO PASS ALONG THE LENGTH OF THE WAGON TO REACH THE STEPS BUT WHAT HE HEARD MADE HIM PAUSE, AND LISTEN.

CHAPTER I.

The first break in the spring was in the air [illegible] when Dale received the [illegible] Swarthey [illegible] the Dale [illegible] early afternoon.

A gaily [illegible] was affixed to the [illegible] with a small legend [illegible] bright red [illegible] a straw background. Beneath Swarthey Circus [illegible] Great Show on Earth.

"Maybe [illegible] will be [illegible] a juggling [illegible] he suffered [illegible] ment began. [illegible] It open. [illegible] pleased at [illegible] fied and [illegible] the message [illegible] hand, [illegible] letters.

"Dear Mr Dale: [illegible] Great Beller & Swarthey Circus was [illegible] when you [illegible] of Swarthey's [illegible] rumors about [illegible] low-down [illegible] day [illegible] Well [illegible] health [illegible] I don't [illegible] than that [illegible] than a [illegible] can find [illegible] James [illegible] If you'll come [illegible] the whole story. And you'll get a yarn out of it like you've never written before. Sincerely yours, Roy Swarthey."

There was an indefinitely vague tone to the letter which intrigued Dale. It told nothing and yet suggested a great deal. He mused over it for a long time before [illegible] to Herbert Bailey [illegible] and [illegible] before the [illegible] without comment. He re-read the letter, then he re-read it. Finally he looked up.

"Thursday? Tomorrow. When are you leaving, Bailey?" took it for granted.

"In the morning. I want to see Leo Carlin at Billboard and get some dope on the show. Never heard of it, have you?" Dale continued as Bailey shook his head. "Guess I'll run out a few hours to Jamesville, of course. I don't know how long I'll be tied up."

"Stick to it as long as you think necessary. It may prove to be a false alarm."

Robin Dale had lunch with Leo Carlin of the Billboard staff. One item of information increased the reporter's interest in the unknown quest. [illegible] Beller and Swarthey Circus [illegible] explaining [illegible] been de- [illegible] the side and [illegible] a hundred years [illegible] big top with an [illegible] wagons on the side [illegible] relates show that the circus has been making history [illegible] years steadily. Both partners [illegible] and the organization [illegible] the show. Beller was [illegible] he was [illegible] dental.

Robert: We [illegible] heard that.

"Accidental death, eh? [illegible] happened in the small hours [illegible] Yes, a case of the unknown [illegible] It is [illegible] that happens in the circus.

"And that was the extent of Robin Dale's acquaintance with Beller, who, he stepped off the [illegible] James [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] Dale [illegible] [illegible] what it called him [illegible] [illegible] appeared [illegible] [illegible] a day [illegible] [illegible] he would have enjoyed the work but the fact that he rode and [illegible] at the circus before the [illegible] parade had [illegible] to the [illegible] gait him the first clue when he recalled the incident later to the identity of the human fiend who wrought such death and destruction within the canvas walls.

The taxi took a back street to Central avenue, the main thoroughfare, was at the moment the scene of the circus parade. The grounds were quite deserted when Dale's taxi drew up near the main entrance to the big top. One of the few workers loitering about gave Dale the directions to Roy Swarthey's headquarters.

Alongside the main tent, which was a towering affair, was the smaller side-show tent with its startling gaudy, atrociously-painted canvases depicting the freaks. Dale went around this tent. In the rear was a long low tent, unquestionably where the horses were stabled. This was quite a distance beyond the main tents. Still further away were the circus wagons, the living quarters of the troupe. There were 12 or 15 of these, done in bright red with yellow wheels, and across the side of each was the Beller and Swarthey legend.

The wagons containing the wild animals, lions, tigers and such, were probably in the midway leading to the big top.

Roy Swarthey was to be found. Dale had been told, in Wagon No. 2. The reporter spotted it easily enough. It was one of two which were considerably larger than the rest, and stood a bit apart at the entrance end of a huge semi-circle into which the wagons were drawn.

As he approached the wagon, Robin Dale heard the distinct murmur of voices coming through window-like apertures, of which there were two on each side. One, centered at the front, by the aid of two steps suspended from and hinged to the door of the vehicle which could be pushed back and out of the way when traveling.

Dale had to pass along the length of the wagon to reach these steps. But what he heard made him pause and listen. It was a woman's voice, low and plaintive and frightened.

"... after. I was undressed. I gazed out of the window for a while. Then I saw Mr. Beller going toward the big tent. I didn't think anything about it until I saw something creeping along not far behind him, keeping in the shadows."

Did you recognize it?" Now it was a man's voice.

"I couldn't . . . I could just make out the form slipping through the flap behind Emily's stall after Mr. Beller went through."

"Why didn't you tell me before, Tito?"

"I was afraid . . . I'd never have said anything—except for what happened last night."

What was that?" The man's voice, sharp and incisive.

"I don't think anyone else heard it . . . I haven't been sleeping well, being afraid and nervous . . . well, late last night Queen Anne was attacked. I heard her cry out, and got to the back door in time to see the form running away in the shadows. You know Queen Anne's wagon is next to ours, but she didn't see me. I waited, but she made no further attempt to get help, so I thought maybe she had some reason for keeping quiet. I was still awake an hour later, when Carl Wiegle came along. He must have been out somewhere, when Anne was attacked. I heard them arguing for some time."

Pianos To Loan FREE

Frankly, we have too many pianos now in stock. Of course, we would like to sell them. Some new, some used instruments. Every piano in the sale will be sacrificed at a price almost unbelieveable. The slashing reductions on Grands, Players and Uprights should cause many to be sold immediately. All pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, particularly homes where there are children. You must call at the store to file your request.

Positively No Charge Of Any Kind

We, of course, reserve the right to select the homes in which the pianos are to be placed and they may be used indefinitely until we need them.

Raquel Advised to Return By Jerry's Doctor

CHAPTER LXV.

It had been three days ago that Raquel and Lucy sat on the [illegible] along the sun baked walls outside the dole shack at Rosita. Rocks with only the stars to see what was going on around them.

[illegible]

Hears of Johnson

[illegible]

Raquel's Plan

[illegible]

Unpleasant News

Just for a little trip Raquel hastened to explain. "We'll be back in no time. Meanwhile if you'll help me get Patchico settled, mother, I'll leave you all comfortable and happy. Think what that will mean to us."

Lucy rose and walked listlessly toward the door. "I must get the meal ready for supper," she said.

Her mother! She was not sure even that Lucy had heard what she had been saying. Except about China.

The next day brought a brief letter from Dr. Logan, the New York specialist who had examined Jerry. It advised her to return as soon as she conveniently could and appended a little kindness about there being no necessity for worry. The specialist wished to consult with her. That was all.

She was outside the shack on the bench when she read the letter. Several minutes elapsed before she could compose herself, find the strength to rise and go to Lucy. The wilderness had returned and the weakness. Every nerve in her body was humming, crackling as if charged with an electric current too strong for it to carry.

"Mother," she said, her voice strained and high, "send Jose to find Pancho. I must take the first train for New York. Tonight. I must go to Jerry."

Lucy hurried toward the shack door.

"And mother," Raquel added, stronger now that a way had opened out before her. "Get Patchico things together. He must go with me. He must. I don't feel equal to going alone."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Lily Still Away

"Yes," Lucy said, coming as near to a smile as she ever did. "He lives out there with Anna. He married her shortly after you left. They have a child. Poor little thing. It's not just right, somethings wrong with its spine."

"What would you expect," asked Raquel, from a child of Anna's? I'm glad she caught Bill though. They were meant for one another."

A pause.

"Did Lily ever come back?"

"No." Lucy gave Raquel a long look. "Lily never came back."

Raquel waited to the door where her face was in the shadow.

"And Jack Farrell," she said, striving to keep her tone casual, "did he ever return to Hermosa?"

The bowl Lucy was holding clattered to the floor, spilling the meal she was grinding.

"Yes," she said mechanically repairing the damage Raquel's question had wrought. "He's been back for some time. Seems he's got something to do with the mines down in Chihuahua. Rosita says [illegible]

"Mother," Raquel's voice had

Furnishing Your Home

Colors in the Bathroom

No longer is just one color enough for fashionable bathrooms nowadays. They are being decorated in combinations of harmonious colors.

The plan is to have one main color, one other color that harmonizes and a tiny touch of a third color that has more strength than the two. The best liked colors for the dominant color note are yellow, blue, lavender and peach. The color combinations must be handled with care.

In what things is color used in the bathroom? In the window curtains, shower curtain, hamper, towels, bathmat, toilette bottles, scale and perhaps in the fixtures themselves.

If the bathroom fixtures are white, then it is possible to use any colors in the accessories that go well together. For instance, the bath towels, bathmat and face cloth in a bright blue. The towels are best when they all have the same pattern in different tones of the same color. The bathmat is darkest in tone, the face cloth lightest. Peach color glass toilette bottles and hand towels would give that third color note so fashionable now.

If the fixtures are colored then it is necessary to consider them as the dominant color. If they happened to be green, as of many are nowadays, then the towels and curtains and hamper might be of yellow, while the toilette bottles could be black-and-white.

Look Beyond Solitaire and Honeymoon, Fay King's Advice to Girls

BY FAY KING.

When a girl is considering marriage she should look ahead.

The wedding and honeymoon are but the beginning of what should be a long and happy life together.

Many a girl has married a poor boy who could give her no engagement diamond, and their honeymoon trip was short and simple, but she saw in him qualities and ambitions that meant future success. Later in life they have toured the world together.

But some girls look into the future in a strange way and pick a husband in whom they have little faith for lasting happiness, but good prospects for alimony and divorce settlements.

No wonder such marriages do not last. No one need envy such a marriage, no matter how brilliant its beginning.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, September 30

Although the signs for this day point to very busy and interesting developments of the affairs yet there may be many opposing features and unsettling problems and complications. There may be a sudden change or upheaval with financial hazard and accompanied by wrangling or sinister attack. But personal contacts may prove conciliatory and give happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by an unsettling and perplexing year with much to be composed by good judgment, calm behavior and sagacious financial judgment.

A child born on this day should be clever and versatile, also energetic and given to bold strokes, but its fortunes may fluctuate and bring a restless and changeable life, albeit its personal relations may bring happiness.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Petticoat Charm

"Petticoats are coming back. Back to their ancient glory." Just what does this mean?

Does it mean three or four stiffly, ruffled "floor-sweepers" to be dragged around the office and held up over the gutters? Or does it mean "petticoat philosophy," petticoat rule and petticoat charm?

Some of the great lovers of the mauve decade can recall the day when the rustle of a taffeta silk petticoat set their pulses beating and was all jumbled in their consciousness with French perfumes and moonlight and waltz music and romantic adventure.

Then petticoats WERE petticoats! Glorious, swishy, iridescent things in gold and green or silver and blue, which peeped tantalizingly out above satin slippers. Like the tinkle of jewelled bangles on a woman's arm, they were a lure, a dare, a call to romance.

"Plain thy frock but frilly thy petticoat," was the admonition to the femme of the period, and expensive withal. For a feminine rustle is more potent than home-cooking and headier than wine."

If petticoats return to vogue, will all the other quaint customs of the mauve decade return with them?

Will "holding hands" replace "necking"? And will a kiss mean a proposal of marriage?

Will men begin sending girls orchids and violets with sentimental messages on the card enclosed instead of bringing them cigarettes and gin and silk stockings, as tributes of love?

And will the girls press the flowers away between the leaves of their favorite poet—for "remembrance"?

Will a glance from the eyes of a man across the room mean "I love you" instead of "Want a drink"?

Will the sight of a slender silk-clad ankle peeping from under a saucy petticoat cause a man to turn around on a windy corner and stare, until it passes?

Don't make me smile! Those dear, dead days of the perfumed mauve decade, when men were "gents" and girls were credulous, will never come back.

You can teach your pet dog to hold a pipe in his mouth but you can't make him smoke it.

* * *

And you can put petticoats and long hair and curls on an efficient, athletic modern young woman; but you can't endow her with "petticoat charm," unless she was born with it! Yet HOW the men Do fall for it!"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Are Modern Women's Feet Getting Bigger?

Women dislike having feet which are conspicuous for size. To be blunt about it, no woman is proud of big feet; she positively hates them. But there can be no doubt she is increasingly sensible about her shoes and stockings.

DR. COPELAND

The styles in women's dress during the past few years have given us rather accurate information regarding matters formerly hidden in mystery. We know a lot more about things than we did in the older days.

Not so long ago I saw a statement made by the manager of a great hosiery company. He said, despite the probable protest from the fair sex throughout the country, the feet of women in America are growing larger.

Only a few years ago he said, women wore hosiery well divided in sizes between eight and one-half and ten. Now the smaller sizes are rapidly decreasing and the larger sizes are in increasing demand.

I follow the statistician to this point. I must part company when he says, "In another generation there will be little difference in the size of a woman's and a man's foot."

I don't believe it. This is merely another of the many dire predictions we have heard about what will happen to women.

They used to say that corsets would cramp the organs and lead to disaster. High-heeled shoes would "throw the spine out of alignment," and disturb the nervous system. Veils would cause irritation of the retina and produce blindness. Sheer costumes would lead to bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis. Rouge and powder would poison the blood and damage the nerves.

But they didn't. These terrible things never happened.

In spite of all her "bad," but charming habits, lovely woman has survived and continues to rule the world from her throne of undisputed power. Her feet may be a trifle larger than they used to be, but even that I doubt. Anyhow, fair woman will never become as gross and massive as is man.

Modern women have a different outlook on life than their mid-Victorian ancestor had. Western women have been emancipated just as have Chinese women. No longer will they bunch their toes and crowd their feet into tiny shoes. They are wearing shoes the size Nature requires for their pedal extremities. Of course they need larger sizes in hosiery not because they have bigger feet, but because they have bigger brains.

They eat honest-to-goodness food. They take real exercise. They walk and dance. Stately minuets through which a foot-tortured maiden could move with mincing steps, have given way to dances which set the pulses beating.

The feet aren't bigger—they simply spread out over the territory Nature intended.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should You Give Your Husband a Divorce So He Can Marry the 'Other Woman?'

Suppose you and your husband had been on the outs for years—

And then another woman came into his life. A woman he loved and respected and longed to marry—

Would you give him his divorce when he asked for it and offered you handsome alimony—

Or would you cry, as Howard's wife did—"No! If I can't have you, no one shall!"

Katherine—the Other Woman—put that problem up to us. And now comes Irene with an answer. Irene lived through just such an experience—as the wife. What did she do? Listen—

"Dear Sally—

"I want to get into this 'eternal triangle' discussion of Howard, his wife and Katherine. I certainly do think that for her own sake, Howard's wife should let him go. And the quicker the better.

"Does she really believe, in her own heart, that life doesn't hold anything more beautiful for her than eternal wrangling over a man she's lost anyway? And doesn't she think that life is almost too short to go on living the way she must be living and missing so much that she must be missing? Can this mother hide the hatred which seems to be consuming her from the children? Doesn't she know that this hatred will have a devastating effect on those children? And doesn't she think she owes those children a better break than that?

"How much better it would be for all of them, and mostly for herself, if she would just let him go. Is such a hollow mockery as she is living worth fighting for? Can she afford to sacrifice her children's respect and embitter their lives by maintaining this attitude.

"You see I am speaking from experience, not just for the sake of passing on a mere idea. I too passed through the same little game and I might add, I came out the winner. Not because I held on to him like grim death, but because I called quits and let him go. The only difference between my affair and this was that there never had been any differences or quarrels between us. I thought we were very happy. Then out of a clear sky, I learned that there was someone else, and that my man cared more for her than he did for me.

"Of course it is dreadful to have your faith shattered like that. But it's much more dreadful if you hang onto it and keep it fresh in your mind all the time. Of course I did stick it out until I was sure it wasn't just a case of infatuation, and knew that there wasn't any hope for me.

"But when I reached that point, did I stick around to be hurt more and more, and made a laughing stock of? Or to sacrifice the rest of my life, just for the sake of being mean and spiteful? No. I should say not! I had too much pride, and I figured life owed me a better deal than playing second fiddle for some one else, and that it was up to me to get it.

"However, Time, that good old family doctor, took me in hand. I gradually forgot my heartaches. I not only forgot them, but I met someone else whom I later married. Have I ever been sorry that I gave my unwilling husband up? I should say I haven't! When I left him old lady Fate brought me someone who was so much his superior that how could I be sorry?

"So I hope that Howard's wife will buck up, be a good sport, and take what she's met with, bravely. Give him up. She just mustn't ruin her own life and her children's, trying to "get even" with him for the hurt to her pride. He couldn't help not being able to keep on loving her, any more than my husband could help not loving me. We all know that love is something that comes and goes without bidding, and no one seems to have control of it. When it dies, it dies, and that's that. Why wreck ourselves getting peeved about it?

"And I'd be willing to bank on it, that when this wife has thought things out for herself, calmly and sanely, and taken everything into consideration, she will come to the only conclusion that good sense can come to . . . To let him go his own way.

"If she will do that, I know that there is just lots of happiness in store for her somewhere in the future, even if she can't believe it now.

"Here's hoping that things turn out happily for all of them.

"IRENE O'NEIL."

A fine, courageous letter, Irene! And one that's packed full of sense and fairness and sunshine. A brave letter.

No woman ever faced a harder test, or came through it more gallantly. And because you were willing to go on into life—because you refused to sink into a wallow of hate—great joy has come to you. It comes to all of us if we have the courage to seek for it.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Gift Indicating Spontaneous Generosity

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly tell me if it would be correct to send a wedding gift to a very good friend before receiving an invitation? They live in another city and they may not be sending out invitations. She mentioned in a letter to me that she was sorry we could not attend her wedding. We shall see them on their wedding trip.

G.

It is correct to send a wedding gift before you have received the wedding invitation. In fact, I think that sending a gift before might reasonably register a more sincere wish to send a gift that is not necessarily called for because of an invitation received than one sent after the invitation was received. Your gift will indicate a spontaneous and generous thought of the bride.

Guest Prizes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A bridge party has been arranged, consisting of 24 people (not including the hostess) and four of these people are to be guests of honor. Two others of the party are out of town guests, but not considered to be guests of honor as they are not very intimately acquainted with the hostess. Provisions have been made for four guest prizes (for the four guests of honor) but no prizes are to be given to out-of-town guests. Do you consider it a breach of etiquette if no prize is given to these two members of the party.

BRIGHT EYES.

No. In fact, it is not necessary to have any guest prizes.

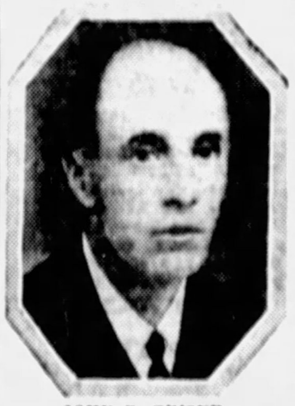
Pittsburgh Man Finds In New Compound First Relief From Painful Ailment.

Do not harbor any doubt about the merits of Konjola, the really different medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness.



JOHN E. GRISER.

Consider for a moment, the case of Mr. John E. Griser, 1618 Forsythe street, Pittsburgh. There are many similar cases about which the Konjola Man at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, can tell you. See him there today. Now read the experience of Mr. Griser:

"For a year past I suffered at different times with neuritis. I was also bothered with constipation. I am not a chronic medicine taker and have taken very little medicine of any kind. I have taken three bottles of Konjola and I feel that it is one medicine that will really do what they say it will do. I am still using it and am going to use it as long as it continues to help me. I have a better appetite and feel much better in every way. I am glad to recommend Konjola to anyone needing a medicine of this kind."

There are a great many men and women who feel, as does Mr. Griser, that Konjola is worth a real trial. Six to eight bottles is the recommended treatment in the average case.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily. Konjola is sold also at all Dow drug stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

1 Dead, 6 Hurt, Week-End Toll of Auto Accidents

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

Questions without answers:

Why doesn't somebody write a song entitled "I'm Simply Apathetic over You?"

Why isn't there an author alive today who can write mystery stories as Conan Doyle did?

Where, oh where are those good old days in which the conductors of the horse-drawn street cars would stop at every corner saloon and spend the latest fare?

And what museum contains one of the old busses in which Honus Wagner, Fred Clarke, Muggsy McGraw and others of their day would ride to the ball parks?

There is a law against good beer and good whisky, but why isn't there a law against bad beer and bad whisky?

Why doesn't Danny Nirella do a modern orchestration of "What's the Matter With Father?"

Or why doesn't George Sharp coax Fay Templeton out of retirement for one week to play one of her old roles in his stock company?

And what business do we have asking such pertinent, if not impertinent, questions as these:

"Miniature" is well-defined
As "much beneath reality;"
Which, to a "he" and facile mind
Is piffle, poof, banality.
A painting done in minature
For artists may hold atmosphere.
But to the mob, not culture-pure.
It's kickless, like our Volstead beer.
Now, for the golfer with a soul
For full "eighteen" or "thirty-six,"
(And then, mayhap, another "hole"
Where expert mixers do their tricks)
These "miniatures" they dub as "links,"
Are far more tasteless than near-brew;
They're dumb and silent like a Sphinx
In their appeal to golfers true.
If women would but get the yen
For pee-wee golf, that harmless lure,
Then GOLF would be a game for MEN,
Who'd shout, "God bless the "Miniature."
SCOTCHIE, THE GOLFER.

Archibald Sutherland and Jock Sutherland are brothers. The second teaches young men football and dentistry at Pitt, the first teaches young men fair play at the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon. Jock is a tall, straight, poker-faced Scot, and Archie could impersonate Police Supt. Pete Walsh so much do they look alike. Both take their work seriously. When a young man comes to the reformatory, Archie, who is a few years older than his brother, makes a determined effort to convince that young man he is not undesirable. He calls him by his name, rather than a number, and he tells him to learn any of the trades taught there—plastering, draughting, stone cutting, bricklaying, wiring, repairing, and so on. Just a few weeks ago a journalism class was started and now the residents publish a paper. In the first issue of the paper there was printed a joke which we are sure was not aimed at Scot Sutherland. It was all about the Scot who left the roof off an empty room of his home and called it the shower bath.

To the Editor of the Sun Telegraph:

A Mexico football team played for the first time Friday night on our mortgaged soil. It's the best amateur team in the world. There's not a paid football player on it. It's practically a new university, founded just two years before Columbus discovered Porto Rico and thought it was America. Boys can't tackle as good as our boys, but every one on the team could speak English, French, Spanish and most of them Germa. Said they didn't have much time to practice as at their school you had to study books. Said the only thing they had down there that compared with our universities was the Mexico City Country Club. 2 Women Companions With Victim Injured; Patrol Crashes, 3 in Hospital

A Pittsburgh woman and a girl are confined to the Canonsburg Hospital suffering injuries received when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by an interurban street car near Houston, fatally injuring one of their companions. The dead man is Sherman Stewart, 72, of McDonald. The Pittsburghers injured are Mrs. Mary Tahel, 22, of 208 Anderson street, and Florence Elizabeth Risher, 6, of 1313 Allegheny avenue.

The accident occurred at Snodgrass stop late yesterday. Stewart, Mrs. Tahel and the Risher girl were riding in the automobile of George Craft, 64, of McDonald, when it was struck by a Pittsburgh-bound interurban car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Craft also is confined to the hospital. His condition is serious. He is believed to have become confused and to have driven onto the tracks in spite of warning signals.

PATROL IN CRASH

Two policemen and a woman were injured when the patrol wagon of the Forty-third street police station collided with a street car yesterday at Canal and Sandusky streets.

Herbert Rice, driver of the patrol, and Patrolman James McIntyre and Mrs. Ida Flynn, 51, of 1607 Radner street, were taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. Rice was kept at the institution with a sprained back. The other two were sent home.

BANDITS ROB BUTCHER WAGON

Hold Up Youths on Newfield Road, Escape With Day's Receipts; 5 Other Thefts

County detectives today were searching for three men who bound and tied two boys to a butcher's wagon after taking them to a secluded spot near the Allegheny Valley Golf Driving Range, near Oakmont, and escaped with $1,000 cash loot Saturday night.

Two of the thugs, both of whom were armed, jumped on the steps of the wagon as Andrew Mulski, 19, of Parnassus, employed as a driver for Steiner's General Meat Market, New Kensington, was driving near Newfield and overpowered him and a companion, a boy aged 14.

TIE BOYS

The thugs drove to a spot near the driving range where they were met by another accomplice who had an automobile. The three drove away in the machine after binding the youths with rope.

The younger victim succeeded in loosening his bonds first and shortly afterward freed Mulski. They proceeded to the Oakmont Police station where they told their story. The thieves had nearly an hour's start before police knew of the holdup.

MAN, WOMAN ROBBED

Philip D. Watt, of 312 South St. Clair street, reported to Oakmont police that he had been robbed of $30 and a watch and his lady companion of her pocketbook by two youths who halted the automobile he was driving in the Freeport road near Harmarville Saturday night.

Alfred Miller, of Mill street, Tarentum, reported to Tarentum police that he was held up and robbed by two Negroes while he was driving in Brackenridge early yesterday. The thugs escaped with $8 all Miller said he had in his possession at the time.

Detectives today are investigating the theft of $5,000 worth of silk dresses, kimonas and lingerie of the store of the Lorraine Specialty Company, 6008 Penn avenue, East Liberty, yesterday.

According to Detectives William O'Bryan and John Crouse, who made the investigation, the robbers loaded the goods on a truck in an alleyway in the rear of the store.

6 CENTS IN LOOT

The Dependable Produce Company, of 206 Twenty-first street, reported to police that their store was entered by thieves and 6 cents was stolen from the register, which was broken open. The intruders failed in an attempt to open the safe, officials told police.

An office safe stolen last month from the American Coffee House, Third avenue, was found yesterday in a field near Chartiers avenue, Sheraden. The safe had been broken open and rifled. Important papers were recovered in the safe, but $200 in cash was missing. Detectives will examine the safe today for fingerprints.

CONTO SUSPECT BACK FOR QUIZ

KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 29.—Constable William Raper, arrested in Gary, Ind., in connection with the murder of Joseph Conto, soft-drink manufacturer of Leechburg, was brought here today and lodged in the county jail to await questioning.

Martin O'Lear, Leechburg police chief, and Charles Best, county detective, returned Raper here.

O'Lear said Raper denied all knowledge of the murder, although admitting being the last person seen with Conto, whose mutilated body was found in a wood near Leechburg last Friday.

WIDOW FACES QUIZ

Raper was unable to account for being near the murder scene, O'Lear said.

Mrs. Jennie Conto, estranged wife of the slain man, also was brought here for questioning today. Raper is said to have borrowed considerable sums of money from Conto after heavy losses in the stock market.

CONTO BURIED

LEECHBURG, Pa., Sept. 29.—In a funeral service in which more than 200 persons took part yesterday, the body of Joseph Conto, murder victim, was buried from St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church.

During the procession an airplane soared above and dropped flowers upon the hearse. Mrs. Jennie Conto, his estranged wife, with their three children, Margaret, 14; Mulvana, 10, and Bart, 8, were in attendance.

SAFETY LANE OPENED

A series of mechanical testing stations for determining the running conditions of automobiles were opened today near West Park, North Side. "Safety lane" as the roped off thoroughfare is known, is operated by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association. The tests are provided without cost to all motorists as a feature of "Safety Week" being observed here.

The lane will be open every day this week from 8 o'clock in the morning until six in the evening. It requires only a few minutes to run a car down the lane and obtain a check on lights, brakes, horn, steering, windshield wiper and rear view mirrors. This morning cars were being checked at the rate of 700 per day.

Slugs Found in Car, 3 Suspects Held

Three men arrested Saturday night at Nineteenth and Carson streets, South Side, on suspicious person charges, were held for further hearing by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney, in South Side Police Court yesterday morning. According to police, 20 pounds of slot machine slugs were found in their automobile.

They gave their names as David Gaston, 26, William L. Griswold, 44, and Walter Robin, 26, all of Toledo, O. Secret service officials also are investigating the case.

Coroner to Quiz Boy Held in Slaying

Mathew Jemmison, 18, Negro, of 171 Devilliers street, will be turned over to the coroner today for the investigation of the shooting and killing of his step-father, Samuel Kinsey, 47, Saturday night.

The boy killed Kinsey after the latter wounded his wife, Mrs. Emma Kinsey, 35, during an argument, according to police. Mrs. Kinsey is in the Passavant Hospital with a gunshot wound in the right leg.

DR. DAY ASSAILS CRITIC OF CITY

An article "Is Pittsburgh Civilized," which appears in the October issue of "Harper's Magazine," was attacked by the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church in his sermon yesterday. Dr. Day declared it can scarcely be debated that there is a power in Pittsburgh which has no sense of responsibility.

The clergyman declared the political power of the city is centered in the hands of a few men whose church affiliations give reasonable ground for hope they will use that power in behalf of justice and honor and decency." He said:

"No one who knows the life of our city pretends to believe they do use it in such a manner."

The magazine critic showed lack of perspective, Dr. Day contended, and said:

"The critic does not see things in their true proportion. He finds the crowning example of the futility of Pittsburgh religion in its clergymen who, he states, sit silent in the presence of political and commercial corruption, but call down damnation on the heads of those who dare hold Sunday symphony concerts."

Generosity of Jews Praised By Dr. Ewers in Sermon

Racial hatred was decried and kindliness, sympathy and tolerance urged as the best basis for helping other peoples in the sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, yesterday morning. Dr. Ewers spoke on "Why I Like the Jews" and said it is a poor type of religion which permits hatred to remain in its system. He said:

"I like Jews because Jesus was a Jew. What kind of insane logic is it that prates about loving Jesus in one breath and then curses his race in the next? That is empty, hypocritical and ignorant.

"I like Jews because they are generous. Look at that $10,000,000 gift of Leon and Maurice Faulk for the free clinic at our university. What could be broader or more generous. One only needs to carefully examine the list of generous contributions during the last year to see what a place the Jews hold in this sphere."

Cathie Decides Not to See Gordon Any More

CHAPTER XXXI

The logs in the fireplace had turned to pink ashes, the light of a single lamp threw a faint golden glow from the far corner of the long, dark room. Cathie still lay in Gordon's arms. The sobs that had racked her, that had torn at her throat, and blinded her eyes, had ceased. She lay still, and content.

She knew that it was late. She ought to go upstairs and dress for dinner. She must look a fright, dress all crushed, eyes all red. Alfred would be coming . . . This couldn't go . . .

Her eyelids fluttered open. She opened her mouth to speak. "Gordon, I think . . ."

His mouth covered hers. He wouldn't let her talk, wouldn't let her think. He was kissing her again. She shouldn't let him . . . in a minute she'd send him away, for always . . . because she was married, and she loved him, and this couldn't go on, it wasn't right.

"Cathie, darling, I love you so!"

"I know—I know—"

"Kiss me!"

"Gordon, it must be late. We ought to—"

"Kiss me again, Cathie."

"This is the last time," she whispered, and clung to him, crying a little again, because it would really have to be the last time. And how do people that love each other like this ever part? Her lips found his. Don't send him away right now . . . In a minute . . . in a minute . . .

A Noise
Gordon Hears Someone At Door

He sat up suddenly, gently untwined her clinging arms. "Sh! . . . Someone at the door!"

Cathie stiffened, felt sick and guilty.

She waited dully, while he strode to the hall door, opened it, so that the bright light from without streamed in.

"It's your nerves," she told him almost reproachfully when he came back, after shutting the door behind him.

"I suppose so. There was no one there." But he knew that he hadn't been mistaken. There had been someone. "My watch has stopped. Have you the time?"

She shook her head. "No. But it must be way past 8. I wonder if Alfred has been kept for a conference? Funny Cheong didn't bring any message. I hope there's nothing wrong."

"I must go. I should never have come," he said. He began to walk up and down, excitedly.

Cathie lit another lamp, tried to smooth her ruffled hair.

"You poor kid. You poor little chick . . . and I, making things worse. Oh, I blame myself. It's all my fault. It could have been avoided. My God, what a mess!"

She listened, vaguely troubled. She didn't want him to suffer for her, but it was nice . . . oh, so nice, to have somebody care.

Divorce
Cathie Rejects His Suggestion

Don't! Please don't, Gordon. It couldn't be helped. I wouldn't have it different. I've been happy since I've known you loved me. I'm h-happy now . . . oh, don't mind my crying . . . It's because I'm happy . . . and nothing will ever matter again—"

"My darling! My darling girl!"

"No, no, no. You must go. We mustn't see each other any more!"

"Yes, I must go." They clung to each other. His cheek was wet with her tears.

"This is goodby," he said, how much later he did not know. The pink ashes in the fireplace had turned gray. The fire was out. Cathie still leaned heavily against his shoulder, her face close to him. "Can I kiss you again, Catherine, because it's goodby?"

She lifted her white face.

In the hall he kissed her once more, holding her tight, thinking, "This is the end. I'm losing her. I can't bear it."

"Catherine, other people . . . other people find ways—" His voice was hoarse, but he forced himself to go on. He knew it wouldn't do any good, but he had to say it. "After all, this is an era of personal freedom . . . Divorce is a way—"

She was smiling a little through her tears. She just shook her head. "No, not for us, Alfred . . . oh, my dear, don't you see I couldn't do that to him?"

Puzzled
Cathie Surprised by Lateness of Hour

"Yes, Cathie." He turned his head away. She had the feeling that he was crying. Do men cry? She put out her arms again, wanting to comfort him, feeling helpless, not knowing what to do or say.

"Good-by, Catherine, my darling."

"Good-by." She could only whisper. Sobs choked her. She turned and, without a backward look, walked slowly up the stairs.

He watched her, a little thin thing with a white face and a curly head, all powdery gold from the light of the hall lamp, walk slowly up the stairs . . . out of his life.

When she was gone he went to the hat-tree, and jammed his

BEATING FATAL TO ETNA MAN

Members of the homicide squad of city detectives today were pressing their investigation into the fatal beating of one man and the serious injury of his companion in the East End. The dead man is Michael DeRosa, 32, of Etna, and his companion is Anthony Louggio, 32, a roomer at 609 Lenora street.

DeRosa died in the Pittsburgh Hospital last night. His companion is in that hospital in a critical condition. The men were found unconscious in the rear of 1215 Hyalt street, East End, yesterday morning, their heads battered with a piece of plank found near their unconscious forms.

Police say the clothing of the men had been rifled. John Lauer, 18, of 1216 Hyalt street, is reported to have told detectives he saw three men go to the rear of the house and that a short time later one of the men emerged from an alleyway and walked away. The injured men were found a short time later.

MISSING PILOT'S BODY FOUND

CONNEAUT, O., Sept. 29 (AP).—The body of Willard Parker, Cleveland pilot, was found on the Lake Erie beach near Conneaut about four and a half miles from the place where wreckage was found of the plane in which he and William McNulty, Columbus salt manufacturer, had disappeared four days ago from Cleveland Airport. No trace has been found of McNulty's body.

Indications were that Parker, a wartime pilot, had drowned while attempting to swim to safety after the plane was wrecked in striking the water. The fact that the body bore no cruel bruises led officials to surmise he ditched it and tried to make shore.

Parker's wrist watch had stopped at 2:18, indicating that less than an hour elapsed from their takeoff at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday before disaster overtook them.

Officials directing the search for the bodies saw little chance that McNulty had survived.

hat on his head. For a moment he hesitated irresolute. Then he closed the massive front door behind him and walked away, passing no one in the empty street.

Catherine went into her turquoise and silver room and locked the door behind her. The familiar room looked strange. She stood looking around her as if seeing it for the first time. The bed was turned down, showing the fine hemstitched linen monogramed, faintly smelling of lavendar and rose leaves. The satin puff shimmered warmly in the glow of the night light by the bed.

Night light . . . and the bed turned down. . . . That was queer. She looked at the leather traveling clock on the little table. . . . Quarter past 11! But it couldn't be . . . how could it be quarter past 11? Mr. Farnsworth wasn't home yet, they hadn't had dinner! Gordon came in for tea, and he'd just left. . . . There was something wrong with the clock!

But the clock in the hall was just chiming the quarter. She went out and looked at it. Quarter past 11, all right. But where had the time gone to?

She came back into her room and sat down on the bed. Her head began to ache, or had it been aching right along? She pressed her hands tight over her eyes. Maybe she was hungry. Perhaps if she went downstairs and got something to eat she'd feel better.

Then she noticed the tray that had been set on top of the highboy. A thermos with hot chocolate, a silver bowl of whipped cream, a covered dish filled with chicken sandwiches.

A few letters, too. All ads and bills, and at the bottom a note in a lavendar envelope addressed in pencil with many flourishes: "Mrs. Farnsworth. Personal."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

PASTOR DENIES ANTI-DRY TIDE

Politics and the dry laws were discussed last night at the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side, of which the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr is pastor. The speakers were Judge James H. Gray and the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan.

Judge Gray discussed the action of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes in its alleged juggling of voter lists so that 20,000 persons secured tax receipts and were permitted to vote although not entitled to that privilege. He said he never had knowledge of such flagrant violation of law in tax receipt juggling. He also said the County Commissioners now have such tremendous power that only the highest type of men should be entrusted with this important office.

Dr. Duncan contended that the fall primary elections have not shown a decided anti-prohibition trend, despite the claims of enemies of prohibition.

He said in part:

"What has been heralded as a wet victory has been the change of wet candidates to the advocacy of a different type of wetness. Thus, when the Association Against Prohibition claims that it will add 29 wets to the next Congress it includes 20 who have already been wet—they have simply changed from modification to repeal, which means nothing at all against the dry cause. Indeed, it means something in favor of the drys, because modification of the Volstead act could come by a single vote of Congress, but repeal requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate and House and a favorable vote of at least 36 states, which is a practical impossibility."

PARK POOL BILL UP TODAY

President of City Council John S. Herron today was expected to introduce an ordinance providing for the first improvements which would be along about a $100,000 program for Lake Carnegie, Highland Park.

There is to be one of the pools on which unemployed will be given work here this fall. Tentative plans for the improvement were discussed Saturday by officials of the Public Works Department.

Plans call for a wading pool for small children, and a deeper one for swimming and diving. The pool would accommodate 5,000. Mayor Charles H. Kline is said to favor the improvement.

The Mayor, City Solicitor Charles A. Weiss Knight, Controller James P. Kerr and members of Council today were to confer on the list of work that will be rushed to provide work for the unemployed.

Pittsburgh Returns To Standard Time

Pittsburgh had plenty of time on its hands today.

Although daylight saving officially ended early yesterday, many clocks in business houses and along the streets still showed the old time. However, there were few people late for work, as they had yesterday to find their mistake if the clocks in their homes were not moved back. Among those who were mourning the loss of the extra hour of daylight were golfers and other outdoor lovers.

Camera Question Box

Today's question: What is your opinion of Councilman Robert Alderdice's plan to use local manual labor instead of machinery wherever possible on city improvement work as a means of aiding Pittsburgh's unemployed?

Mr. Heyman.

T. B. HEYMAN, North Side salesman: I admire the idea a great deal. The unemployed must be given something to do. I don't believe that this plan will do this.

Mr. Leschine.

PAUL LESCHINE, Ambridge unemployed: It would be fine only Pittsburgh men (the city) can afford to do this.

Mr. Dickson.

FRANK DICKSON, North Side laborer: I think it's the best thing that ever happened. There are plenty of men out of work. I know. This plan seems to be the only means of helping them.

Mr. Lewis.

WILLIAM LEWIS, North Side, salesman: The unemployment situation would most certainly be alleviated by using local manual labor wherever possible instead of machinery. Cooperation by the plan by the city officials would also be of great assistance.

Mrs. Thornstey.

MRS. FREDA THORNSTEY, North Side housewife: I certainly do think this is a good plan to relieve the financial condition of unemployment. We all know machinery has taken the place of many of our local men. I believe it's a splendid idea for the city to start work. I believe it should help. Pittsburgh men (the city) can afford to do this.

H. Briggs

HAROLD BRIGGS, Beltzhoover unemployed: Machinery would work less for the city but this suggested method will end the unemployed. If the city can afford it I think it's the better way.

TRIP TO FRANCE SPURS GIRLS

There is great interest among the girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity in the Gloria Swanson "What a Widow!" Paris tour which this newspaper is offering in connection with Telegraph. And the less said to the girls to the Telegraph girls who want to go, the better. There are a hundred and one girls who want to go, and for work. I believe he should help. Pittsburgh men (the city) can afford to do this.

All expenses will be paid for the girls to Paris and Bermuda tours, everything will be de luxe and the girls will each be given a liberal amount of extra money to spend.

The girl who gets the Paris trip will sail on the palatial French liner Paris and will have a day at the motion picture studios in New York and an opportunity to meet many motion picture stars.

The five girls selected for the Bermuda trips will go as a special party and will have a glorious time. It will take two days on the Atlantic each way and their comfort, amusement and recreation will be guarded in advance.

The tours are only available to girls of 21 years of age or who will be 21 before November 18.

The plan for the distribution of the tours will be disclosed before the end of the week. Every girl reading this is having sent in a coupon at the bank getting the complete information to mail.

Incidentally, Miss Swanson's new picture, "What a Widow!" the greater part of which was filmed in Paris and on board the liner Paris and on account of which Miss Swanson is awarding the Paris trip, is now the attraction at Loew's Penn Theater.

PITTSBURGH 'RAINY DAY' ARTIST PAINTING SHOWBOAT TWO WAYS

RIGHT THERE HE WAS, SO WHY SHOULDN'T HE HELP "GOLDEN ROD" SKIPPER ON DECK?

Artists Meet as John Kane Paints Capt. Menke's Famous Showboat

By PENELOPE REDD

For 50 years and more John Kane has looped the hills looking down from the heights on the valleys of the three rivers and painting Pittsburgh with graces of his own invention.

For 20 years Capt. Menke and the Golden Rod show boat have roamed the rivers beating a razzo of homely dramas for those who take their theater neat.

Then John Kane, who had painted landscapes on the days too rainy to paint houses or on wintry days too inclement for construction work, was claimed by fame as a perennial survivor of international juries of artists. He became a legendary name wherever contemporary art was discussed.

And Capt. Menke's Golden Rod became famous through a combination of curiosity aroused by Edna Ferber's Show Boat and of Christopher Morley's revival of old time melodramas.

The other afternoon these two shrines of fame met when John Kane journeyed out to paint Capt. Menke's Golden Rod moored to the Allegheny shore at Mount Lebanon.

Penelope Redd

And paint the Golden Rod" in more than one way did John Kane. Mounting to the upper deck to see the world from the valley he seized upon a brush and can of paint and set busily to work improving the water tank, according to the best traditions of his trade.

Then descending to the river bank he carefully unwrapped his canvas, which was a landscape painted from the heights of Natrona on the opposite bank. Taking out his paints carried with individual independence in small cans in a Boston bag, John Kane set quite naturally to work.

This painting will probably be one of the group which Mr. Kane will send in response to the invitation to participate in the biennial exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington.

Club Women Urged to See Films

In line with one phase of Mrs. Thomas G. Winter's motion picture work, the club women of the country are being informed of two films, "Abraham Lincoln" and "The Big Trail," soon to be released throughout the country. Mrs. Winter speaks of the two as essentially American pictures and says no one who knows American history can fail to be moved by them.

Concerning the Lincoln picture Mrs. Winter, who as every clubwoman knows is spokesman between the organized women of the United States and the motion picture industry, warns that it will undoubtedly awaken controversy because it is an idealized portrait, but she adds, it is rather stupid not to idealize.

In "The Big Trail" hundreds of people have been 14 weeks living over again the actual experiences of the pioneers of the Oregon Trail in a marvelous enactment of the adventure and indomitable spirit that went into the conquest of that part of the country.

Not for the sake of the industry, Mrs. Winter points out, is she attempting to interest the women of the country in the two new films, but to create the demand for more of this kind and to help America to better films.

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Sept. 29. Furs here are dyeing to be seen in the best clothes. Early in the spring we believe we outlined an account of this by reviewing the collection of one of the leading furriers who had decided to make clothes as well as magnificent fur wraps. This collection featured furs dyed to match the fabric of the suit, and now the idea has been further extended this season. Both the snowy ermine and the little gray squirrel are being dyed black for the purpose of making a sartorial hit of the day, and are being used on the latest models now being shown. Squirrel dyed a particularly glossy and lustrous black and blends beautifully with black wool with which it is much used for smart street suits. Black ermine, too, is making a timorous appearance and will probably attain some measure of popularity first because it is a novelty. It has been seen before, but we have all been on the lookout for the girls to be expected that the fur trade should produce some novelties in addition to the sheer pelts and collars.

THE ENSEMBLE, is still to be found on the sartorial record of the evening and in its subtle guise is attracting the attention of the best dressed women. The exciting frock will little matching coat is much in demand for this time of the year when we do not wish to discard our long wraps but to wear a little jacket that has no relation to the accompanying frock, as that season's two much of the summer we have just seen. To give you a distant idea of the type of ensemble favored in Paris we are sending you a sketch of a becoming Chantal creation. It is of sky-blue satin and the coat has a most interesting diagonal closing. Three bows of satin fasten the coat at the right hip while a button just below the ermine collar closes it at the top and opposite side. Ermine cuffs border the straight sleeves. Many circular godets give a crisp flare to the ankle length skirt.

SQUIRREL DYED a lustrous shade of black is the feature of the Worth suit here shown. It is gray white and black tone haired tweed. The coat is straight and ends at the hipline. It has a single button placed at the center front. The black squirrel is used for the collar, cuffs and muffs that is quite a feature of this suit.

IN GIVING THE gate to Joe McCarthy and putting Rogers Hornsby in his place as manager, the Chicago National League club was only keeping true to a reputation for making changes. McCarthy lasted longer than any other Chicago pilot with the exception of 18 years and in the other years of the club only two skippers were kept at the helm for more extended periods than was Joe. They were Cap Anson, who served 21 years, and Frank Chance, who remained on the job for seven seasons. M. Carthy stuck for five campaigns. At one stretch the club had six different managers in straight years, 1912 to 1917, inclusive. Frank Chance, Johnny Evers, Hank O'Day, Roger Bresnahan, Joe Tinker and Fred Mitchell. At another time, 1924, it had three leaders in one season.

MORGAN SOCCER TEAM WINS

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Buff Donnelli donned his soccer shoe for the first time this season yesterday afternoon at Morgan and the home team swamped the Bass Boys club 10 to 0 in a Keystone League game.

A large crowd was on hand to watch the famous Buff swing into professional soccer activities and while Buff was a power in the front line of the home attack every player had considerable to do with the rolling up of the large score.

The five forwards scored nine goals and the other came from the foot of T. Maguire. A pretty pass by Millers Run found the Shannon Juniors and Cecil team batting in the same league schedule. Two brilliant goals by Frank Bregel, playing outside left for Fintex, gave the visitors a 2-to-1 victory over Cecil.

In other soccer battles yesterday Victory Hill beat Fitz Henry 2-0, Mollenauer nosed out Coverdale 1-0 and Bower Hill whipped the Shannon Fintex Juniors 6-1. Heidelberg Juniors and Gladden tied at 2-all. Gallatin defeated Clark-ville 3-2, Herminie blanked Versailles 4-0 and Manown set down Elizabeth 3-0. TOMORROW—BASEBALL'S GRAND OLD MAN

LOCAL ELEVENS SHINE IN OPENERS

The much discussed qualities of mercy were somewhat strained over the week-end as the 1930 intercollegiate football campaign broke over into full gallop. Not for some years have minor elevens taken the going over that the little fellows did Saturday, not only in the Tri-state district but throughout the country.

Carnegie Tech and Pitt made auspicious starts. The Tartans, exhibiting a world of zip and class, neatly dissected the Bulls of Buffalo University, while Pitt, its reserves clicking in extremely gratifying fashion, handed Waynesburg quite a beating.

DUKES TOP TEACHERS

The Dukes rallied nobly Friday night and turned back the aspiring Slippery Rock Teachers. Grove City rolled up the greatest score of the day against Morris Harvey. Washington and Jefferson piled up an unusually high total against Bethany, which appears to be in for another drab campaign, and West Virginia left little doubt of its superiority over West Virginia Wesleyan, facing the Bobcats in decisive fashion.

It will be a busy game of parts at Morgantown this Saturday when Pitt and the Mountaineers argue.

While the opposition was of the weakest sort, it was unfitted for Tech's foes as the mildest sort of a test. Carnegie's powerful Tartan eleven toured every inch a champion Saturday at Buffalo. Playing on a soggy and treacherous gridiron, and with a mile-a-minute wind sweeping across the field, Tech rolled up 75 points against the Bulls.

It was not the intention of Messrs. Waddell and Steffen to crush the weak Buffalo team under such a score, but the matter simply could not have been helped. At times all the Tartans had to do was take the pigskin in their arms and run. Had Tech elected to open up with a real aerial attack, they could

CARDS FAVORED IN SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Player for player and collectively there is little to choose between the Athletics and Cardinals, world series foemen, in the opinion of this writer.

The National League champions I figure are better equipped for a test of endurance. In other words, I think the Cardinals will win if the series continues through six and seven games.

A brief resume of this writer's idea of the comparative qualities of the contending players follows:

PITCHERS

Many American leaguers who have studied the Cardinals no doubt will admit that the Cardinals have the edge in pitchers, speaking from a collective standpoint. Burleigh Grimes, Jesse Haines, Flint Rhem and Johnny Watwood are one of whom is qualified to be called a first-stringer.

CATCHERS

Mickey Cochrane gives the Athletics an advantage in the catching department, yet there are many National Leaguers who will tell you that when all elements of play are measured, Jimmy Wilson is right close to Cochrane. It is not generally known that Wilson is the lad who stopped most of the enemy sights.

FIRST BASEMEN

First base is almost a toss-up.

GROVE CITY SHOWS LACK OF GOOD RESERVES

CRIMSON GRID CHIEF MISSES VETERANS

(This is the eighteenth of an annual series of special articles, written by Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, dealing with the prospects of tri-state district college elevens. The article on Bethany will appear soon.)

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 29.—Around a halfback who can run to his left and run well, a crackerjack pair of guards and an all-around backfield toiler, Charley Berry is constructing his 1930 Grove City varsity eleven. Coach Berry is working with one of the smallest squads in the district, a squad on which proven reserve strength is conspicuous by its absence.

Barring unforeseen injuries the Grovers anticipate a strong first eleven, but unless some of the new men and some of the holdovers come along, Berry will be hard put for reserves.

Although it has won the tri-state district minor college championship four out of the past five years, overconfidence has taken its toll in defeats here. Last, the Crimson took Waynesburg too easy and lost, and for the same reason, were tied by St. Francis and Thiel two years running.

MISS THREE VETERANS

Three of the seven lettermen lost from last year's squad are going to be greatly missed. Walesk's punting and passing, Pete Koma's great defensive tackle play and Mose Lantz' work at center could be put up with this fall without causing the corners of Coach Charley's mouth to droop.

There are eight lettermen available for line duty, but no experienced performer on hand for center. Three ends, two tackles and three guards are veterans. One of the wings, Reeves, is recovering from illness and is far under weight. Foti, shifted from guard to tackle, is being counted on to take Koma's place. Canton and Sofish, a really brilliant pair of guards, will protect the center of the line.

Supported by the ailing Reeves and Briggs, a freshman, Herb Shiring and Chuck Gregory will fill the wing jobs. Both are playing their fourth year of varsity ball, so it may be concluded that they have picked up the necessary experience. It will be the middle of the season before Reeves will be ready for heavy duty, if he isn't shifted to another position by then, and Briggs remains a doubtful quantity.

Foti will be in there at tackle with Brown, a letterman, and Rosequist, a husky and promising appearing freshman in the race for the other job. Either will make a capable reservist if he doesn't start. Plance, another freshman, has been working out as a tackle but has a long way to go before he can be called on for first string play.

SECOND-STRING GUARDS

Critchfield, who won his letter as a guard last year despite the fact that he had to battle Sofish and Canton for a job, and Graham, a first year man, are second-string guards. Critchfield is one of the few reserves upon whom Charley can count.

Red Carnahan, a sophomore, and Bill Bache, a freshman from Bellefonte, are centers. Bache, weighing 170 pounds and an accurate passer and apt at picking up defense tactics, has a slight edge at the present. Whether he will hold it or not remains to be seen. Charley Ray, a former Grove City High product, a varsity candidate for the first time in his three years in school, is making a bid for the job. His 190 pounds will come in handy if he can make the grade.

Freddy Pusch, of Beaver, veteran back, is due for a season of hard work in the backfield. He's running at quarterback at present, where he will call signals, do most of the kicking and where his ability as an interfering and blocking back make him extremely valuable. If it becomes necessary to shift him to halfback, Rich Thomas will go to quarter.

Captain Elwood Kammer, at right half, goes to his left very well, usually a hard task for a natural righthander, and is a pip of a ball toter. He's a fixture at the position, unless he suffers a complete reversal of form.

The other halfback job is being contested for by Art Alexander, a freshman prospect from New Castle, Mike Koma, who also gallops as a quarterback, and Jim Bartlebaugh, a letterman in his third year. Alexander has shown his coach everything necessary in the workouts to date. If he can come through under fire, he will take a great load off Berry's mind.

Baylor, Munson and Shupe comprise a group of three fine fullbacks. Shupe, back after a year's layoff, has been plunging well and is a good kicker. Munson, big and strong and a line ripper of no mean ability, is one of those unfortunate athletes, who, when he gets hurt, gets hurt bad. Baylor can go well and has shown fine qualities on the defense.

OUTLOOK NOT BRIGHT

Grove City's general outlook then, hardly is one calling for any great degree of optimism. No football team is stronger than its reserves, and Grove City's reserves have yet to prove their class. The first eleven will be as strong and formidable as any in the district, but once injuries begin taking their toll, the situation will not be so cheerful.

A well balanced schedule has been arranged, calling for contests with practically all of the Grovers' natural district rivals. The season opens with Morris Harvey, October 4 finds the locals meeting St. Francis in a night game at Patrell. October 10 the Crimson plays a second nonconference engagement with John Carroll in Cleveland. The week following Westminster comes here for the annual tussle. Geneva will be met at Beaver Falls in a night attraction, October 24. On November 1 Allegheny will entertain the locals at Meadville and on October 8 Grove City will seek revenge for last year's defeat and 1928's tie with Waynesburg, playing the Jackets at Waynesburg.

Bethany is here November 15 and the season closes with the annual clash with Thiel Thanksgiving Day.

have put Russ Saunders and his Southern California club to complete shame.

DRESHAR VERSATILE

Capt. Johnny Dreshar whose ambition is to play every minute of every game this year started off by battling the Bulls all afternoon Saturday, playing both a guard and a tackle. John looked quite at home at the latter position, too. He played tackle some during his prep school days at Bellefonte.

Howdy Harpster, coach at Geneva, learned early the sensation of watching one's ball club soundly trounced as Bucknell took the Covenanters for a merry ride. Had it not been for some alert work on the part of Earl Ewing, who grabbed a Bison forward pass and raced 70 yards for a touchdown, Geneva would have been blanked. The defeat won't hurt Harpster any, rather it will serve as valuable experience. They all get it, sooner or later.

West Virginia's attack must have been better organized against Wesleyan than it was against Duquesne. Playing the Dukes the Mountaineers seemed unable to get together. In beating the Cats 26-0, the Mountaineers had to show something, for the Cats have no slouch of a ball club.

Thiel Tech's opponents for the coming week gave Temple a stiff argument Friday in a night game in Philadelphia and are certain to cause the Tartans anxious moments here this week. They always have in the past, and the Lutheran squad this fall is the most promising of years.

OHIO STATE WINS

Future opponents of Pitt and Tech in their inaugural battles Saturday performed in very satisfactory manner. New York University whipped the ears off Jakie Bohren's Hobart varsity. Ohio State ran Mount Union ragged. Penn State piled up an early lead over Niagara that stood up under the late aerial attack of the visitors that netted two touchdowns. Syracuse walloped Rensselaer. Friday night, and Nebraska enjoyed a good workout in trimming its freshmen contingent.

Salvation Army To Dedicate Gym

The Salvation Army is going in for athletics. Believing that physical fitness aids spiritual fitness, the army's gymnasium at 434 Third avenue will be formally dedicated tomorrow evening, thereby adding to the city's indoor gymnastic and athletic facilities. The affair is free.

W. S. Haddock, president of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., will preside.

Bobby Jones Given Quiet Welcome Home

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Bobby Jones, the young Alexander of the links, came home today from his newest conquest—the American amateur at Merion.

He came home not to the kind of ostentatious welcome that to him is just a lot of bother, but to a quiet spontaneous reception—in a word, a sort of a big municipal handshake.

There was no blare of bands, no endless parade, no great speechmaking, just a lot of friends from every walk of life standing in the station to greet him when his train pulled in at 9:30.

PROS BEGIN TITLE PLAY

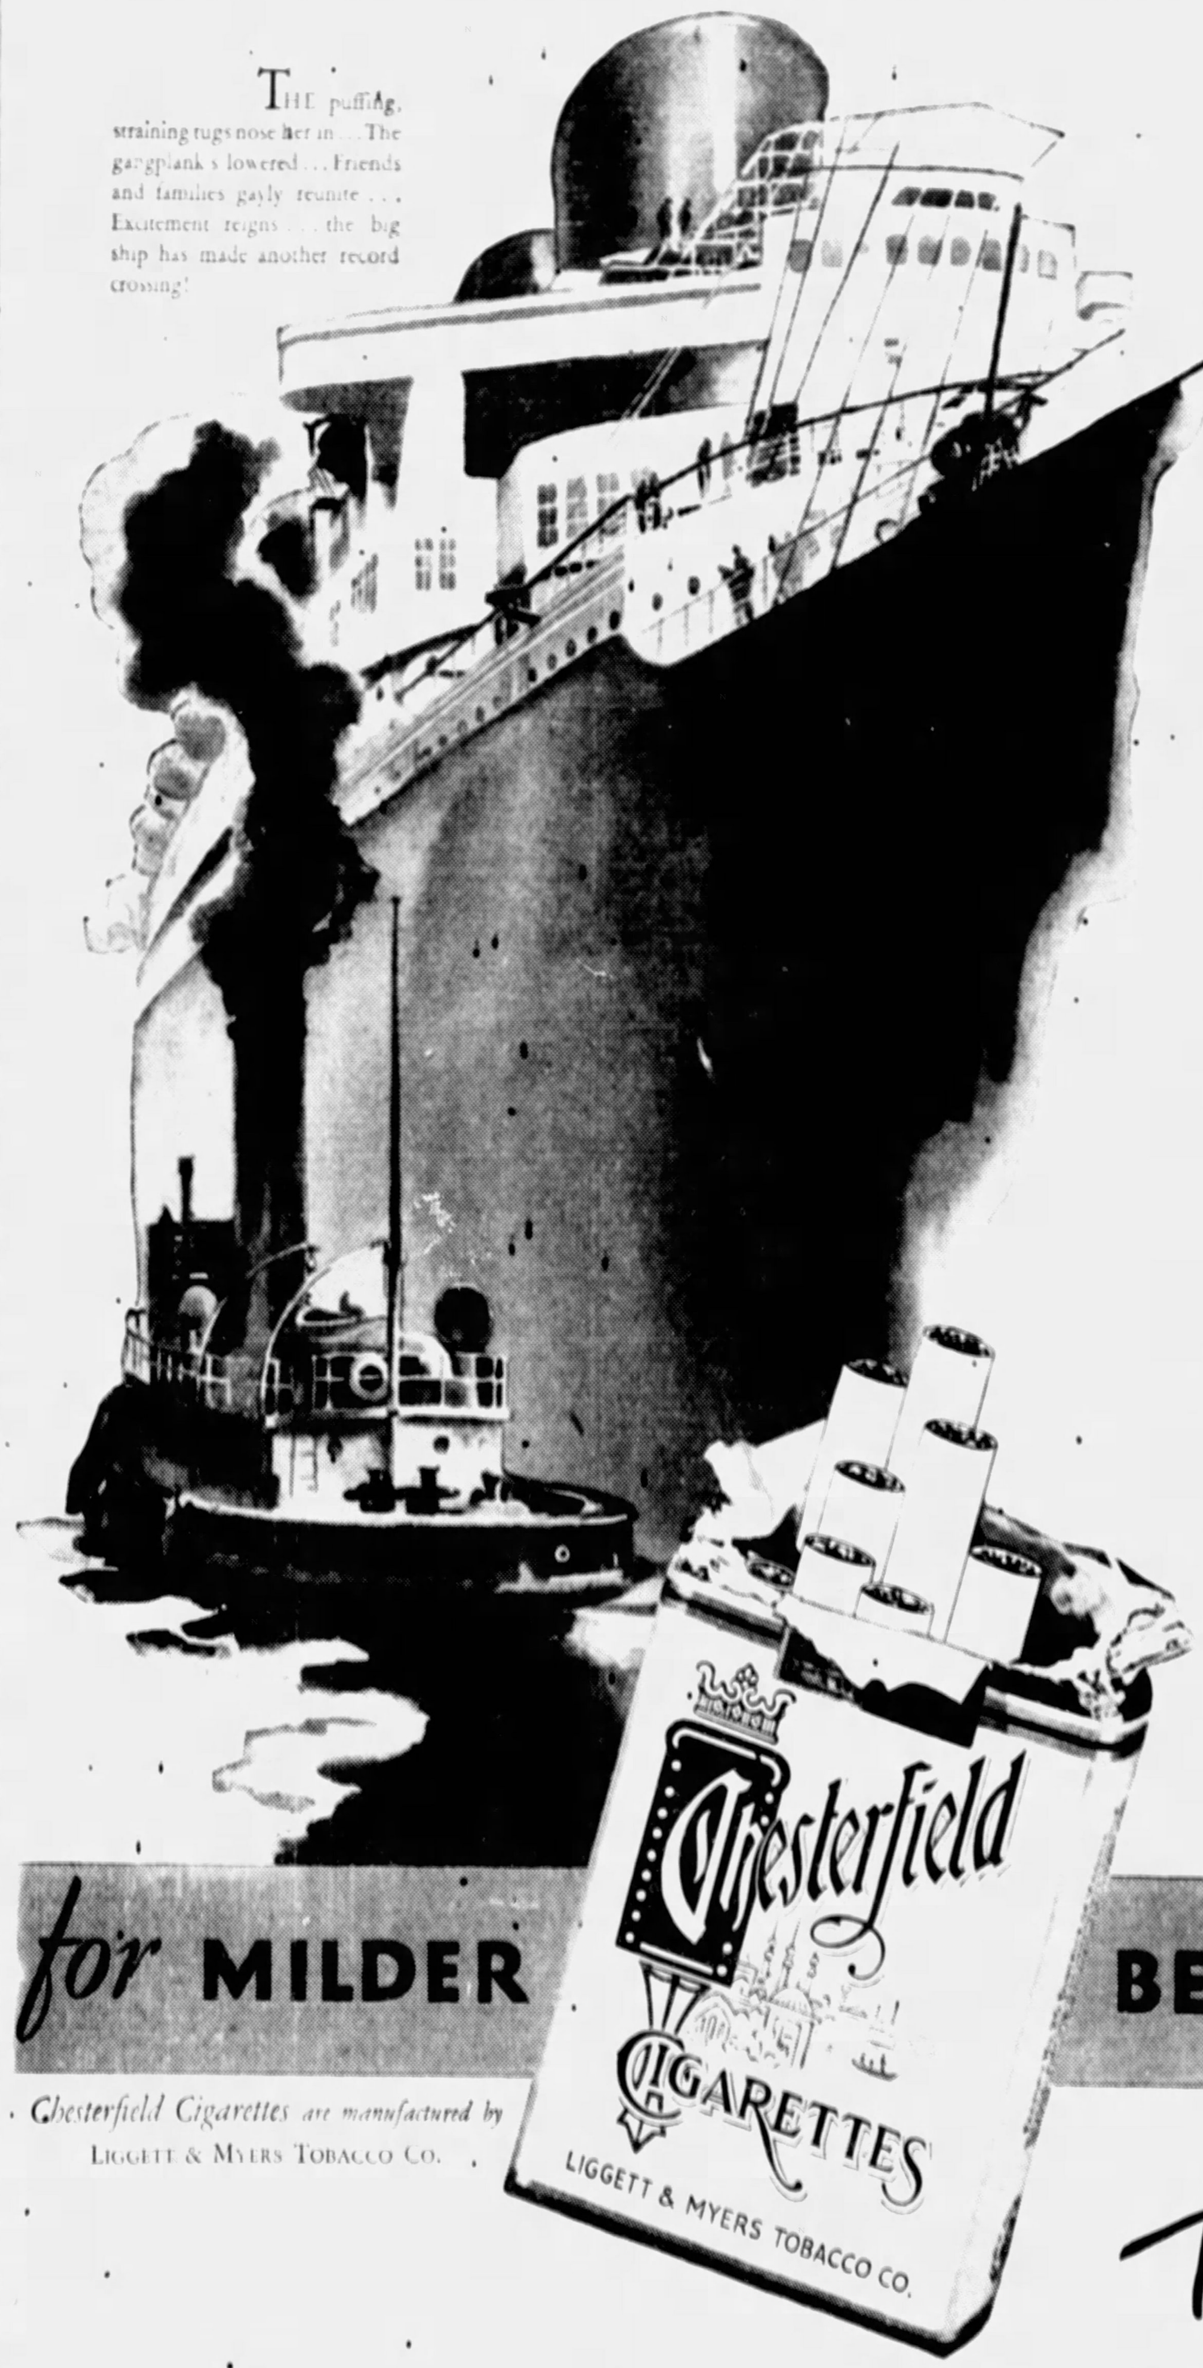
By VERN SWARTSFAGER

A second big week in golf got under way this morning at the beautiful Riverside Golf Club links in Cambridge Springs when professionals from throughout the tri-state sector gathered to vie for the Northwestern Pennsylvania professionals' championship over the two-day 72-hole medal play route.

Scores were expected to run comparatively high, however, for the cold weather that was encountered by the amateurs last week had increased to a certain extent, and more than one shivering golfer started his way over the stiff resort layout this morning. The course is in splendid condition for play, much better than most of the links in the immediate Pittsburgh district.

Thursday and Friday will see the women in their annual fight for the Northwestern Pennsylvania throne, and entries at this time, according to Mrs. F. M. Sloan, president of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, indicate a record field.

William P. Baird, who is sponsoring the tournaments, is making a generally fine job of it this year.



THE puffing, straining tugs nose her in . . . The gangplank is lowered . . . Friends and families gayly reunite . . . Excitement reigns . . . the big ship has made another record crossing!

Long's Sport Comment

Burleigh Grimes

"WE HAVE A group of vicious hitters," says Burleigh. "Our infield is far superior to Philadelphia's, and as for our outfield—say, Hafey and Douthit will risk their necks to pull down long drives. Walls or fences mean nothing to either when chasing a fly. Frisch is one of the great world series players of baseball. He has been under fire so often he just gets his speed up to the big tests. Bottomley has been aroused at the thought of entering one more world series. High has been a mighty fine reserve man. Adams is a ball player's player. That's why he is not out of the league. Hit a ball within range of Gelbert and he'll come up with it. The A's can't beat us as they did the Cubs. We are certain to hop in there, get a lead and keep it. Philadelphia did not have such pennant competition as we had. The clubs in the American League were scattered and the A's did not have to rise to such big occasions as the Cardinals. Our pitchers have to work on three men. Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx. Stop them, and the A's are through. And I feel sure we can do it."

The Grays were defeated in the first game 6 to 2 and won the second 5 to 2 scoring four runs in the eighth inning. Britt was on the mound for the Grays

SEVERAL MAJOR LEAGUE MARKS SHATTERED

NEW YORK Sept 29 — (AP) — Only two individual champions in the major leagues have retained their titles in the season just ended.

Babe Ruth although unable to remain home-run king of all baseball continued to lead the American League with 49 four-baggers improving his 1929 mark by three.

Kiki Cuyler fleet Chicagoan continued to steal more bases than any other National Leaguer although his total of 36 was below his 1929 mark of 43.

Bill Terry of New York became the leading batsman of the National League compiling an average of .401 although he was not able to pass the total of 254 hits made by Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia in winning the 1929 title with a .398 mark. He did tie this total which is a National League record.

KLEIN, WILSON LEAD

Chuck Klein of Philadelphia and Hack Wilson of Chicago led in the individual record smashing. Klein scored 158 runs hit 59 doubles and made his blows good for a total of 455 bases. All three were records for his league passing the totals of 156 and 52 made last year by Rogers Hornsby of Chicago and Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn and of 450 total bases made by Hornsby a few years before. Wilson left hardly a fragment of the league home run record as he hit 56 to beat the mark of 43 set by Klein in 1929. And in doing this he established an all-time major league mark of 180 runs batted in and helped his team do as much for the club homer record with a total of 171 for the Cubs. Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh supplanted a teammate Lloyd Waner in first place by hitting 23 triples.

The final result of the race for the American League batting championship which Lou Gehrig of the Yankees and Al Simmons of the Athletics carried on may not be known until the official figures come out but unofficial returns have it that Gehrig's three hits yesterday brought his mark to .382 to give him the crown by a one-point margin. Whoever gets the decision supplants Lew Fonseca of Cleveland.

GEHRINGER OUT

Charley Gehringer of Detroit who swept American League honors in 1929 came to the end of this year without a title. Last season Gehringer led in runs with 131 in triples with 19 and in stolen bases with 27 and was in two first-place ties with Dale Alexander, Detroit with 215 hits and with Johnson, Detroit and Manush, St. Louis, with 45 doubles. This year Simmons scored 153 times Johnny Hodapp of Cleveland made 225 hits 51 of them doubles, Earl Combs, New York smacked 49 triples and Marty McManus, Detroit stole 27 sacks.

The Athletics went to bat 5,666 times and the Yankees scored 1,060 runs and had 980 batters in. Both Yankee marks broke major league marks of 982 and 933 set by the champion Chicago Cubs of 1929. The Cardinals had one slugging record to their credit. They hit 367 doubles passing a major league record of 355 set by Cleveland in 1921.

By making four hits in two games yesterday John Hodapp Cleveland Indians second baseman, became the leading base-hit maker of the 1930 American League season. He made 225 hits to 220 for Lou Gehrig of New York Yankees the runner up.

Hodapp also sealed a second claim to fame by handling 15 chances faultlessly to run his record of consecutive errorless plays to 158.

BUCS BEATEN BY ROOKIE

ters. Traynor singled to open the fourth inning, thus becoming the first Pittsburgh base-runner since the first frame. Bankey singled in the seventh and Waner walked in the eighth. That was the sum total of Pittsburgh's attack.

GET TO FRENCH

Meanwhile, after holding the Redbirds hitless for two innings, Larry French loosened up. Gelbert and Dean singling with one out in the third and Douthit scoring Gelbert with a double. Grantham held Adams' infield grounder and the bases were filled. High forced Adams, Dean scoring and then High died stealing to kill off the rally.

A single, wild pitch and sacrifice fly brought the Cards' their last run in the sixth.

Stark, Marshall Captain, Injured

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Tommy Stark, captain and fullback of the Marshall College team, probably will be kept out of the game for a month as a result of injuries suffered in a contest with Ohio Wesleyan last Saturday, Dr. E. B. Adams, squad physician said last night.

An examination, Dr. Adams said, revealed that Stark had suffered two dislocated cartilages in his knee. Dr. Adams also said that a sprained ankle suffered on Saturday by Raymond Hunter, end, would prevent him from playing for about three weeks.

GRIDDER IS HURT

CARDS ON WAY TO PHILLY

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Gabby Street and his Cardinals sped eastward today to do battle with Connie Mack's Athletics in baseball's greatest classic, the World Series.

The Cardinals are due to reach Philadelphia tonight. Tomorrow they will work out on the Athletics' field and Wednesday unless all signs fail, the old spit-baller, Burleigh Grimes will find out just how good the Mack hitters really are.

All the talk was not of the World Series as the Cards' special train moved Philadelphia-ward, much of it had to do with the game 19-year-old Jerome (Dizzy) Dean pitched against the Pittsburgh Pirates here yesterday.

Accompanied by 10 baseball writers, including those from the St. Louis newspapers, the Cardinals departed at 5:30 p. m. yesterday for the Quaker City. Although most of the fans had told them goodby at Sportsman's Park earlier in the day, a fair-sized and noisy crowd was at the station to see them off.

The players are apparently supremely confident in their ability to defeat the Athletics.

PASS THROUGH HERE

The Cardinal party passed through Pittsburgh this morning at 7:25 o'clock, the train running slightly ahead of time.

Leagues Name Umps For World Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—J. E. (Jack) Reardon and Charles Rigler will be the National League umpires in the world series, President John A. Heydler announced today. For the Chicago city series President Heydler named E. C. Quigley and George Magerkurth.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—President Ernest Barnard today appointed George Moriarty and Harry Geisel as the American League umpires for the world series between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Colonels, Wings Meet in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 29 (INS)—Shifting the scene of the junior world series from Rochester, N. Y., the Louisville Colonels and Rochester were to meet here today.

Rochester by virtue of its 4-to-0 victory yesterday over the southern team was leading its opponents three games to one. The eastern team's victory yesterday made it three in a row.

Paul Derringer, Rochester righthander, allowed the American Association champions only four hits in yesterday's battle. Derringer walked only one man and fanned eight.

Molnar, Auto Race Driver, is Killed

AKRON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Joe Molnar, 30, of Detroit, died in City Hospital late yesterday from injuries suffered when his car rolled over and landed on him in the twenty-second lap of the A. A. A. automobile race at the Akron Board Speedway.

The scheduled 100-mile race was called off at the end of the eighty-first mile with Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis, winner, because of the dangerous condition of the half-mile saucer. Shaw's time was 1 hour and 13 minutes.

CASTING KINGS CROWNED

Pittsburgh was treated to a fine exhibition of bait and fly-casting over the week-end when the Pittsburgh Casting Club baby member of the National Association of Scientific Angling Clubs put on a state championship tournament at Carnegie Lake, Highland Park. A large gallery witnessed the events.

Many casters from other cities participated making the tournament one of almost national importance. Members of the Cleveland Casting Club made a clean sweep of the first prizes and A. Accetta of that club came from behind to win the all-around championship from Otto Peters of Buffalo, national all-around champion and Eddie Braddon of Cleveland former holder of the title. A. A. Trimble retiring president of the national association supervised the tournament and incidentally captured three first prizes. The results:

Accuracy: A. A. Trimble, Cleveland, 98; Otto Peters, Buffalo, 97; Eddie Braddon, Cleveland, 95.
Three-eighths bait casting: Trimble, 93; A. Accetta, Cleveland, 91; A. Lewis, Cleveland, 91.
Three-eighths plug casting: Braddon, Cleveland, 100; Accetta, 99; Trimble, 98.
Fly casting: Accetta, 247; Peters, 236; Braddon, 230.
Tackle casting: Accetta, 247; Braddon, 236; Peters, 230.
Distance fly: Braddon, 191 feet 10 inches; Accetta, 190 feet 11 inches; Peters, 190 feet 9 inches.
Distance bait: Braddon, 161 feet 11 inches; Accetta, 161 feet 10 inches; Peters, 161 feet 9 inches.

C. W. Ward president of the Pittsburgh Club and W. R. Oliver, W. B. Kerr, J. C. Batcheller, D. D. S. Leet and others of the Pittsburgh Club while not among the first prize winners, pressed the visiting experts for the honors.

WAGNER QUITS AS SOX PILOT

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Charles (Heine) Wagner has resigned as manager of the Red Sox, that baseball club announced today. Wagner had served as manager only this season. His successor had not been named, it was stated.

Wagner took over the team after the retirement last year of Bill Carrigan, manager of the Sox when the Boston team held the world championship. Carrigan, when he came out of retirement at the request of President Bob Quinn several years ago, induced Wagner, another veteran of championship days, to return as his assistant.

Wagner's luck proved no better than Carrigan's and the Boston team wound up its season yesterday in the familiar cellar position.

Although the club management denied a successor to Wagner was in view, speculation immediately centered upon the possibility that Joe McCarthy, deposed manager of the Chicago Cubs, might be induced to come to Boston.

Hungarian Sprint Star Equals Mark

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The world record of 10 4-10 seconds for the 100-meters was equaled yesterday by the Hungarian sprinter, Otto Raggambi, hitherto unknown outside of Budapest. Raggambi's mark was made in the course of a dual meet between France and Hungary, which the latter won, 79 points to 70.

The 100 meters record of 10 4-10 is held jointly by Charles Paddock and Eddie Tolan, of the United States. Paddock set the record in 1921 and it was equaled twice last year by Tolan.

COPPER MARKET IS QUIET

Copper prices turned easier during the latter part of the week when custom smelters offered metal at further concessions of ¼ cent after the reduction by larger producers to 10.50c failed to stimulate demand. Domestic consumers are still holding off inasmuch as they have not expanded operations to the extent anticipated and withdrawals of metal on contract have been correspondingly small. The liberal offerings to the home trade at lower levels have again placed foreign consumers at a disadvantage as the export price has been maintained at 10.80c c.i.f. and demand has been small. Nevertheless large producers continue to hold steady.

Tin price fluctuations were irregular. Business was better with reports of good bookings made to consumers covering all positions up to next April.

Lead was without particular change. Zinc was steady. Antimony was quiet.

Ohio Brass Net Holding Up Well

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—Ability of Ohio Brass Company to continue the annual extra dividend of $1 on the common stock started last year, reflects the small percentage of decrease in earnings the company has experienced this year.

Ohio brass is a large manufacturer of high tension insulators and other electrical equipment as well as brass valves for steam, gas and water. Although earnings so far this year have fallen from the level of 1929 when the company earned $7.76 a common share compared with $5.24 in the previous year, it seems probable that net profit for the full 1930 year will be above the 1928 figure.

STEEL PLATE DEMAND UP

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 29.—Demand for plates in the East shows slight expansion but the improvement is not indicative of a general gain, according to Daily Metal Trade. Notwithstanding livelier demand for pig iron in the East, prices are easy and waiving of differentials continues. Demand for steelmaking iron has moved from a condition of absolute stupor to one of real activity. Structural lettings continue to gain at New York with some fabricators at capacity. Structurals are less active at Chicago, however.

Copper in London Lowest Since 1896

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Base metals slumped on the Metal Exchange today attributed largely to liquidation on the New York account. Copper fell 23 shillings per ton to £48 8 shillings and 9, lowest since 1914, and since fell pence. The lowest since 1896. Tin 5 shilling per ton to £115 1 shilling dropped £3 per tone to £126, the and 3 pence the lowest since 1896.

BONDS AFFORD TRADERS CHEER

Upward Movement Follows Precedent, Bankers of U. S. Meet in Cleveland

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. Identity [illegible] recent [illegible] common [illegible] become [illegible]

For [illegible] opportunity [illegible] the business [illegible] dividends [illegible] cheer [illegible] need [illegible] to the [illegible] market [illegible] in a [illegible] In his [illegible] vigorous [illegible] ment [illegible] upward [illegible] the business [illegible] is following [illegible] precedent [illegible] normally [illegible] to turn [illegible] toward the [illegible] of a decline [illegible] and usually [illegible] times [illegible] long after [illegible] tom has [illegible] reached [illegible]

Mr. Rukeyser

Further [illegible] low prices [illegible] recently [illegible] ing on the [illegible] executives [illegible] making [illegible] Bell Telephone [illegible] turned the [illegible] science was [illegible] its belief that [illegible] for a depression [illegible] mouth buying. Paradoxically [illegible] that the [illegible] which have been [illegible] buying have increased against actual and paper [illegible] and now [illegible] the hope of [illegible]

TRADE HAS GAINED

Referring [illegible] and great [illegible] ing corporations [illegible] ker economist [illegible] Company points [illegible]

"Unless these assets are used in part to stock depleted shelves with raw materials at prevailing low prices some companies will miss a rare opportunity."

The Standard [illegible] Company however reports that its survey has shown that though inventories have been greatly reduced in the last year they have not yet been curtailed commensurately with the short-term volume of business.

In spite of the alleged opinion of stock market specialists that trade improvement [illegible] for a time the summer has been disappointing, statistical reports indicate that there has been a lift in trade since midsummer, a gain which of course [illegible] seasonal character.

BANKERS CONVENE

The money lenders and credit dispensers of the nation will assemble at Cleveland today at the opening of the fifty-sixth annual session of the American Bankers Association. There will [illegible] and informal [illegible] wreckage that [illegible] since trade attained the inflated peak in June, 1929. Officially they are scheduled to [illegible] attention on bank [illegible] banking and bank earnings [illegible] actually when the [illegible] formally in the [illegible] land hotels they will [illegible] one another how business and whether stocks are cheap.

A year ago bankers were wondering whether bonds would return to popularity. Straight bonds without speculative features have come back to a great extent that could not be predicted. The new investment philosophy regarding stocks may in a measurable extent mark a rationalization of prevailing prejudices and emotional excitement. An examination of the annals of American economic history reveals that in times of depression when investors are rallying to bonds are always the most sought after medium of investment. Moreover in times of rising prosperity there is a disposition to favor stocks. The unanalytical however are perpetually forgetting that economic conditions are forever changing and are inclined fallaciously to believe that what is good policy at one stage of the business cycle is equally applicable at others.

WARNS OF LETTERS

The public is cautioned against expecting the gospel from market letters and from tipsters. Referring to characteristics of latter phases of bear markets H. W. Schabacker in his comprehensive new volume on Stock Market Theory and Practice editorially asks:

"From a logical standpoint how are the professionals, the students, the authorities, the pools going to accumulate stock to cover their short commitments made in the previous distribution period long ago and at higher prices?"

Then he asks:

"How are they going to accumulate additional stock for the next major bull market if they cannot discourage the public to sell their basically sound stocks at the bottom of the bear markets?"

Strength of Markets
Technical Position
Overestimated

Wall street would appear has grossly overestimated the strength of the market's technical position not been sufficient time to indicate any trend of importance to cover [illegible] comparable to draw any definite conclusions. It would bear mentioning now operating executives in general confident of the position and perhaps more so after liquidation of long holdings has been sufficiently accomplished to permit these selected issues, without difficulty on occasion.

Some people hold it is difficult to judge the market intelligently today as it was a year ago "At that time" says one firm "as we all now realize anyone who calmly analyzed stocks on their merits and sold them short might have lost enormous amounts of money even though in the long run their judgment was correct. Just take one instance we recall where in August of 1929 Westinghouse Electric advanced over 80 points in little over three weeks and the last 40 points of this move occurred within a week. Today the picture is reversed. We may be very close to a final decline in the market that might mark the low points in selected stocks for years to come. At the same time, the early buyer might temporarily be as wrong in buying now as the early seller in 1929. The best that can be said is that this is a good time to be on the sidelines except as regards strictly in and out trading commitments or accumulation for long pull investment.

Rock Island's gross for August shows a contraction of about $3,338,000 compared with the same month a year ago and its net operating income a shrinkage of about $1,350,000 by comparison. For the first eight months the road shows a contraction of about $13,100,000 in gross and of about $5,380,000 in net operating income. Net income for the eight months amounted to $4,816,826 after charges equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to $3.36 [illegible] a share on the 544,825 shares of common stock outstanding. This compared with $6,146,826 after charges or $5,695,905 for the corresponding period last year which after charges was equivalent to $7.41 a share on the common stock.

Segal Lock and Hardware's excellent performance on the Curb Exchange is traced entirely to the prospects for the company's new razor blade selling at half the price of competing brands and showing a brisk initial sales volume. The new blade is now being produced at the rate of 100,000 daily. Segal's regular dividend requirements of 50 cents a share are understood to have been covered by earnings from the lock and hardware divisions so far this year so that the showing from the razor blade should widen the margin of safety.

An explanation for the sharp decrease in net earnings of railroad systems this year, amounting to 33 per cent under 1929 while gross revenues have contracted but 12 per cent is seen in the figures for capital expenditures of railroads for the first half of this year. During this period rails spent $468,305,000 more than $118,000,000 in excess of such outlays in the like period of 1929. The charging of such expenditures against current earnings has contributed largely to the disappointing showing made thus far this year.

One commission house points out that in appraising Woolworth at the present time cognizance should be taken of two principal factors. First, the general business depression creates many new buyers for a chain of stores which sells the lowest priced merchandise. Second, lower commodity prices imply lower manufacturing costs, and a buying advantage for the Woolworth chain, because retail prices of articles remain fixed at five cents and 10 cents.

Postal Money Orders Good Retail Index

The value of domestic postal money orders paid (cashed or cleared) in fifty of the largest cities in the United States during the first seven months of 1930 is compared with the corresponding figures for the past eight years.
Source: U. S. Postoffice Department.

Families without bank checking accounts use postal money orders when money must be paid at distant points. A large volume of the money orders issued is sent to the bigger cities in payment for mail orders and other retail purchases. For example, New York City cashes about ten times as much as it issues, and about 90% of this large volume comes through the Clearing House from large retail houses. Thus it is believed that money orders cashed in big cities are a good index to the general purchasing power of the small-income classes. The money order volume this year is larger than any other year with, of course, the exception of 1929.

Quiet Prevails in Electrical Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Demand in the market for electrical equipment and apparatus during the past seven-day period underwent little change from the slowness of recent weeks. Spottiness is still the predominating characteristic of current buying activity although routine business is improving somewhat, reports Electrical World.

Several important equipment contracts in the Eastern district have served to inspire confidence in an otherwise listless market. Central station commitments continue to show an appreciable decline as compared with a few weeks ago and while inquiries tend upward present requirements are restricted.

Economies Go Too Far In Some Companies

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

MOST CORPORATIONS have been engaged in economizing ... recent months. This is common practice during ... periods of business. It keeps business in a ... state. Without occasional times of inactivity business ... would be too careless about cutting dead wood ... Occasional pruning helps to make executives shake up ... which is not carrying its share of the load.

But in many organizations the ax is being swung in the ... Executives which in times of prosperity ... have been allowed to grow ... are cut down. But expenditures ... which have been doing their share of duties should not ... Sometimes it is ... to pare down costs in line ... with reduced sales.

Any economy move which reduces the facilities of an ... organization to get new business or to hold old business should ... be considered before it is approved. Sales organizations, ... new business promotion departments and advertising appropriations ... have been included in the expense cutting activities of a large number of corporations. It has not been a case of merely weeding out the weak sisters which did not produce when business was active. In too many organizations the good has been ... with the bad.

Mistaken Economy

REDUCING A SALES FORCE or cutting ... advertising appropriations is a step toward ... the depression. It is a move limiting the speed at which a company's business can recover when the general flow of the tide starts in the direction of good times. It is a favor to competitors since it gives them a chance to get the jump on business when it starts to pick up.

The maintenance at an adequate level of an expenditure for getting business would act as a stimulant to hasten recovery, and the company which pursues this policy will be first in line for the new orders when the flow gets back to normal proportions.

When a locomotive starts on an up grade and its speed is reduced, it would be just as logical for the fireman to cut down on the supply of coal as it is for business to economize on the activities that make customers sign on the dotted line.

We Have Nothing to Sell

CURTAILMENT IN EFFORTS to get new business is the equivalent of putting a padlock on the factory door and telling the public, "We have nothing to sell." It detours ... orders to someone else.

Incidentally, one of the wisest advertising campaigns ever ... told the public, "We have nothing to sell." During the ... shortage of sugar and the press of government orders ... impossible for Coca-Cola to supply its retail trade for a ... period. For the time being this company could ... reason for keeping its name before the public. ... officials of the organization looked farther than that. ... knew that some day they would want their markets back. ... was kept up at its old pace announcing, "We have ... to sell." It cost money, but the market for the product ... conditions returned to normal.

... Coca-Cola ... is related to a condition exactly the ... state of business, but the same principle ... applies. Any reduction in efforts to get new ... should be considered not merely in the light of conditions as they are, but from the standpoint of business next ... year, next month, next week.

At one time a board of directors was considering a reduction in the appropriation for advertising and sales work. One official pointed out the window. "The money we spend to get business is like that fountain," he said. "It gets its supply of water from a reservoir several miles away. If we close the valve at the reservoir the fountain will keep on running for about 20 minutes. But when we open the valve it will be another 20 minutes before it starts to work again."

NATURE NOTE

With the Local Pretenders

If with a little more tact
Mosquitoes worked, they'd not be smacked —
So often, yea, without the buzz.
Less frequently they would be whacked.
But I suppose mosquitoes are Like human insects, under par,
And would not, even in their stalking,
Take safety in exchange for talking.

From Noah's Journal

Have not writ in my diournal these many weeks because I did suffer myself to trample on my own hande while bending to hooken sock suspender in a great presse of people so that I but lately come to scriven with my left hande and even so I finde not much blessing in it as the characters made with quill shew so captious that they will not pass, or look binding to the mind of man, and thus I know not, after 'tis performed what the texture of my thot was, whether it be good or evil.

Home Well Furnished

It Honors the Father and Mother, Develops Good Sentiments in Children

This week, September 26 to October 4, is devoted to the home.

"To Adam paradise was home. To the good among his descendants home is paradise."

The home is the foundation, the cornerstone of civilization, and good furniture is the foundation of the home.

THE HOME CAME FIRST, BEFORE ANY NATION, STATE, COUNTY, CITY OR VILLAGE EXISTED

In the Garden of Eden with Adam and Eve, according to the fundamentalists, in the cave, the desert tent, the platform over the lake, millions of years ago, according to modernists, the home, most important institution among human beings, was first established.

In those ancient days, as in our own time, you could judge the home, and those in it, BY ITS LOOKS.

No need to listen to family conversations, or inquire into family history. The LOOKS OF THE PLACE, the furnishing in it, tell what it is and what its inhabitants are.

* * * *

"To be happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition, the end to which every enterprise and labor tends, and of which every desire prompts the prosecution."—Samuel Johnson.

In the red Indian's tepee, made of rough hides, or the woven tent of the wandering Arab, you see a few rough pieces of furniture and know that you are among nomads, that have no settled habitation. To them "home" means little—a shelter only for the night and from rain.

The efforts of women, seeking to protect their children, changed the human race, from nomadic life to a settled, FIXED existence.

The cultivation of plants, producing grain, from what were weeds; the domestication of animals, buffalo, horses, birds; securing food, milk, transportation, eggs, SAFETY FROM STARVATION made wandering from place to place unnecessary.

Then was established HOME LIFE.

* * * *

From the abandoned camp, with its pile of bones and burnt out ashes, men changed to settled habitation and gradually built up the homes and HOME FURNISHINGS of today.

And as in the old days, you identified the nomads by a temporary dwelling, so in these days you identify and classify civilized MEN by the homes that they establish for their families.

* * * *

Life's values are based on childhood memories.

The good citizen is he who turns with affection and tender recollection to the home of his youth.

That home is what the father and mother make it.

If it is bleak and bare, ill cared for, the spirits of children suffer.

If it is comfortable and beautiful, reflecting the affection and artistic feeling of parents, the souls of children are nourished by it.

* * * *

"Stint yourself, as you think good, in other things, but don't scruple freedom in brightening home. Gay furniture and a brilliant garden are a sight day by day, and make life blither."—Charles Buxton.

EVERY MAN SHOULD MAKE HIS HOME AS COMFORTABLE AND AS BEAUTIFUL AS HE CAN AFFORD TO MAKE IT.

And while it is not all a matter of money, the home should have a share of the family income, great in proportion to the importance of the home itself.

And "home" to the children, and those that visit it, forming in it their opinions of the family, means everything that a good home contains—pictures on walls, carpets, rugs on the floors, sofas that are comfortable, a piano that is a center next in importance to the family fireplace, a modern radio, talking machine, all modern conveniences and equipment.

"When home is ruled according to God's word, angels might be asked to stay a night with us, and they would not find themselves out of their element."—C. H. Spurgeon.

* * * *

As years pass, and science adds to the possibilities of beauty, comfort and luxury in the home, the good father sees to it that the dwelling of his children and their mother shall offer to them and their friends all that he can afford. The radio brings all the music and the news of the world into the home. The talking machine, supplementing and giving life to books in the library, offers, at every instant, the finest of musical genius, ACTUALLY LIVING.

* * * *

Of all songs written, none touches as many hearts as the simple "Home Sweet Home."

With the word "home" are linked the memories that make life worth while, and lift men above the brute.

The old are gone, but imagination restores them to their place, the most comfortable, beside the fire.

A child has died, but its toys are kept in the little room of sacred memories, where the too few hours of love and happiness were passed.

Make your home worthy of its mission, the creation of a nobler race.
